Down the road Agency to tackle toxic testing

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

The investigation of suspected toxic substances in a local dump site will continue according to officials from the Department of Natural Resources who announced Monday that necessary funding has been received.

The investigation began after fires at the site caused the evacuation of more than 1,000 area residents and school children in early May.

DNR officials have said that no testing has as yet been performed at the old Mendrick Dump site, south of Ecorse Road and west of the railroad tracks, since the last in a series of fires was extinguished May 12, according to Hakim Shakir, DNR district supervisor.

Shakir said Monday that the DNR received a letter from Lansing today announcing that funds were now available for testing samples at the Mendrick dump site. The funding would include aerial photographs, ground surveys and drum sampling.

"We expect this information will cause drum removal to proceed at private expense, however, if that effort is unsuccessful, we intend to remove the drums at public expense," said Gary Guenther, chief of DNR Environmental Response Division.

And while DNR officials first said testing would begin the week of the last fire, Shakir said, "sampling could now begin in two weeks after a contractor is named."

So far, the only sampling occurred immediately after the fire and included only air samples from the site and nearby Wick Elementary School, noted Howard Murray of DNR Air Pollution Control Division.

Wick and Romulus Junior High School, both on Wick Road and just south of the dump property, were evacuated during the May 12 fire after Wayne County Health Department officials suspected toxic fumes in the area.

Catherine Morse of the DNR Water Control Division confirmed that neither ground nor surface water samples have yet to be tested. However, Morse visited the site last Thursday with Romulus Ordinance Director Steve Banko.

"We walked through the old dump site looking for any tell-tale signs. Some areas looked suspicious," she said.

"We still don't know if toxic waste is buried in the drums on the dump site. Waiting for funding is normal procedure. The entire sampling process could take a couple of three months. There's been no change since the incident," he said.

Shakir said the site still ranks low on the priority list as rated from tests performed by the DNR at the dump site earlier this year. At that time, the dump was found to contain five toxic chemicals: phenol, cyanide, zinc, iron and xylene cadium.

When the Air Pollution Control Division tested the air in Wick School after the fire, only an industrial solvent known as tetrahydrofuran registered on the DNR equipment.

"This compound was well below the threshold limit and no cause for concern. It registered 4,000 times safer than already legally acceptable," said Murray.

Last week, the air in Merriman Elementary School on the south side of the city was tested. "We brought the same test from Wick School to Merriman School. We wanted to compare the two buildings and be certain of conditions because the schools were both built about the same time. We have no results yet," he said.

Murray added that an additional series of air quality tests will be performed later this month and again in September both at the site and the schools.

Budget hearing date set

Members of the Romulus City Council have proposed an $8.8 million city budget for the fiscal year 1987-88 beginning July 1.

This includes a reduction in city taxes of .2 mill bringing the total millage to 9.2 mills and an increase in city services provided by the police and public works departments.

A public hearing of the proposed budget has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Monday, June 22 in Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said significant features of the budget include no increase in millage, a positive fund balance of $526,251, a reduction in debt service for sewer of .2 mills and an unfunded position for a Public Service Coordinator.

This position has yet to be defined but responsibilities would include instructing personnel in the use of computer and word processing.

This budget for the operational needs, debt retirement and enterprise activities of the city of Romulus is balanced, McAnally added.

The budget was prepared after various city department heads were consulted and the presentation of a statement of their objectives to the mayor.

Members of council conducted three budget workshops where slight revisions were made, according to Mayor pro tem Mary Ann Banks.

"This is a balanced budget. Taxes are slightly decreased and some services have increased. We are pleased with the outcome," she said.

The budget increased by 10.9 percent from the $7,095,006 amount last year. Wages and estimated cost for resolution of impending labor contracts are major contributors to the increase, according to McAnally.

The police department budget increased 30 percent, "reflecting the concern of the council that the department be expanded and improved," she said.

"We should be able to provide a good service to the community and, with funding from the Tax Increment Financing Authority for infrastructure and other enhancements, continue our efforts toward an expanded and diversified tax base," McAnally said.

Less than half, or about $3.5 million come from personal property taxes. The remainder of the budget is financed from fees, licenses, government revenues and other miscellaneous assessments.

The police department operates with the largest portion of Fire damages schoolroom

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Fire blazed through the woodshop at Romulus High School, damaging the building structure, machinery, a computer and several school projects last Monday evening.

The building was empty following classes at the Enterprise High program, which ended at 8:20 p.m. said Mike Birmingham, the Monday Night program advisor.

Romulus fireman were summoned on the scene at approximately 10:30 p.m. and, according to Joel Carr, Romulus administrator, "acted quickly and caused very little other damage." He also credited the efficient cleanup by the high school custodial staff as classes resumed on schedule the following morning.

"Damage was much worse than we initially thought," he said. "Six hundred square feet of the roof was totally destroyed. Secondary fires re-occurred in the roof and smoldered two different times. The floor was water damaged. All the electrical was damaged, but we haven't been able to test any equipment yet. Roof work will begin this week at an expected cost of $10,000."

He said the room was secured properly after class was over and there were no signs of forced entry. Romulus fire officials are investigating.

Brother and sister found guilty by jury

A brother and sister await sentencing after juries in Wayne County Circuit Court found each guilty of illegal drug possession.

On Feb. 25 of this year, Romulus police arrested three people, Anat Romano, 25, Zory Romano, 36, and Sabrina Robinson, 31, and confiscated more than $1 million worth of cocaine and heroin as well as large amounts of money and jewelry. Police described the drug bust as the "largest in city history."

At the time, bond was set at $3 million for Zory and $1.1 million for Anat. It was subsequently reduced. Both now await sentencing scheduled for June 23 in the Wayne County Jail.

Zory was charged with possession of 650 grams of heroin, which receives a mandatory life sentence, according to a Romulus narcotics officer.

"He actually was carrying 880 grams," the officer said. Both were also found guilty of possession of less than 50 grams of cocaine.

Zory will again stand trial in August. In a second incident Feb. 25, police again allegedly found him in possession of more than 225 grams of cocaine. This charge carries a maximum seven year prison sentence.

According to police, the charges stem from one incident at the Quality Inn where less than 50 grams of cocaine were confiscated in a briefcase Zory claimed was his, and a short while later at the Knights Inn where less than 250 grams of cocaine were found under the bed by police in a room registered to Zory. The heroin was found in the trunk of a car leased by Zory. Police re-

Drug ring surrounded

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Recent arrests at three separate hotels by Romulus police are cited as the break up of a large drug ring.

Police arrested five Inkster men between the ages of 19-21 after a raid at the Roadway Hotel in Romulus May 27. The names of the suspects are being withheld pending the issuance of warrants.

"Romulus officers Mike Liebert and John Hlinak got suspicious when they noticed heavy foot traffic between three adjacent hotels on Wickham Road," police reported.

Police obtained a search warrant and seized 49 grams of cocaine, more than $1,000 in cash, a 1985 Toyota, a 1987 Mustang, (which police noted was paid for with $9,000 cash), car phones, five beepers and a plastic machine gun.

"It was a pretty good bust," police said.

Conference studies wetlands

It is said that in some parts of western Wayne County if one steps off the pavement and water collects in the shoe print, the Department of Natural Resources will declare the area a wetland.

The statement obviously is an exaggeration, but it points to the feeling of uncertainty about DNR policies that is shared by many elected officials, planners and developers. Several proposed projects in the area have been halted recently when the DNR ruled that part or all of the properties involved were wetlands.

Following a meeting with DNR officials last week, members of the Conference of Western Wayne noted conflicting interpretation of policies by DNR Director Gordon Guyer and other DNR officials. In order to resolve some of the issues a task force was established to study the wetlands issues as it applies to area development.

Westland Mayor Charles Griffin, chairman of the CWW, said that one of the goals of the task force would be to require the DNR to designate all wetland areas on regional maps. The designations, he said, would alert developers as to which areas are wetlands before extensive pre-planning is undertaken. Both community officials and developers would be aware of the available sites from the early planning stages of the proposed projects.

Griffin said that if the task force was not successful in gaining the designations and guidelines on wetlands, the local communities would pursue changes through the legislature.

The CWW chairman said that a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision "may have a dramatic impact on the DNR." Griffin referred to the ruling on the First English Evangelical Lutheran Church of Glendale versus the County of Los Angeles in which the court ruled that property owners are entitled to compensation when government restrictions prevent them - even temporarily - from using their land.

Other CWW members agreed that the Supreme Court ruling could have an impact on the legislation which prevents development of property which has been designated as wetlands. Attorneys from the 17-member communities will study the local implications of the court decision.

Road funding may be stalled

A road funding plan, presented by the Wayne County Office of Public Services, is currently under consideration by state legislators, but chances for its early approval are said to be slim.

The package of seven bills includes a two-cent per gallon tax hike - an increase that Governor James Blanchard has indicated he will not support. Provisions of the proposed legislation would support three equally-funded programs: future road development with a minimum of 25 percent allocated to counties with less than a 400,000 population, trunkline takeover programs to enlarge the state road system and a capacity improvement program to reduce road congestion in urban areas.

OPS Director James Vollman presented the road funding plan to the Conference of Western Wayne in May. No action was taken by the CWW to support the plan either at the May or June meeting. Adoption of a resolution was termed "premature" by CWW members who indicated they would await details on the benefits to their communities before offering support.

State Senator William Faust of Westland told CWW members that it could be Christmas before the legislators were ready to take action on the bills.

Faust said task force meetings were scheduled last weekend, and he anticipated that the road program might come before the legislature this week. Still undecided, he said, was whether a two- or three-cent gasoline tax would be proposed.

Five Romulus High School students placed in the Health Occupations Students of America State Conference conducted in Kalamazoo last month. Four made the semi-finals.

"I'm excited," said Evelyn Hopewell, cooperative education coordinator. "These students excel in medical terminology, anatomy, physiology and general information. They did a fantastic job."

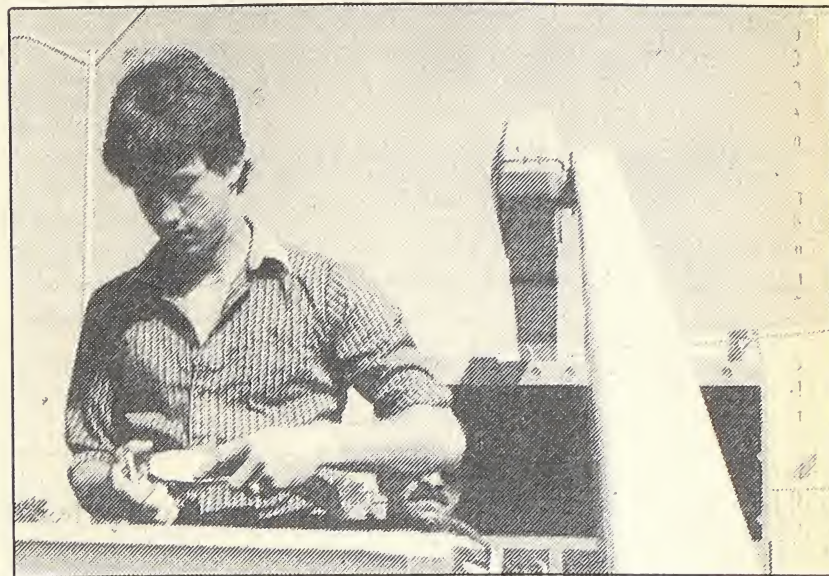

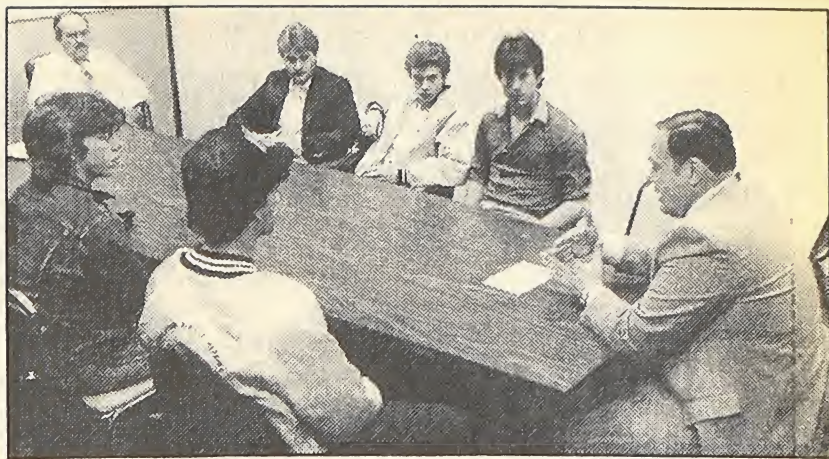

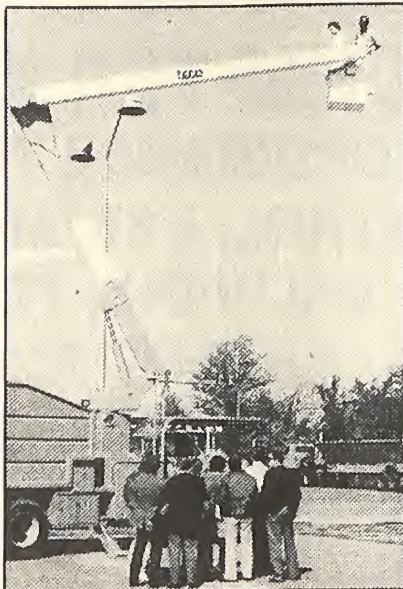

The four semi-finalists were Brian Banyai, Denise Corder, Sandy Plonka and Pam Brown. A large trophy was presented to Tracy Allen who placed fifth in Michigan for medical terminology. "And they did exceptionally well at the regionals," Hopewell added.

Students visit workplace

The Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce recently sponsored a "Take a Student to Work Day", and Romulus High School students participated. They visited local businesses and in one morning experienced an average daily routine. "It's an opportunity for chamber members to get involved in a community effort that will result in a dynamic, rewarding experience for students. It's a true partnership between business and education. We want students to have a sense of the business world around them," said Sharon O'Brien, center manager for Wayne State University and director for the SWCCC.

Thirteen Romulus High School students spent the day learning about the operation of Metropolitan Airport. Under the direction of Airport Director Dick Jamison, five students learned basic airport operation and business. "The whole picture," added O'Brien. Eric Reikel, parks director, escorted three students through the central maintenance yard in Westland. And five students listened to Roads Director Pat Hogan as he explained the administration of roads, forestry, traffic and bridges.

The city of Romulus just recently joined the SWCCC. "We plan to participate in many other joint ventures in the future," said Omer O'Neil, president of the SWCCC. State awards Help Center $18,000

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

In the midst of a reorganization in two city departments, the Mayor's Task Force on Drug Abuse received $18,000 from the Southeast Michigan Substance Abuse Service for problems related to youth and drugs.

The announcement was made at the 16th Annual Meeting of the Romulus Help Center conducted at the Romulus Holiday Inn earlier this month. The Help Center intends to initiate a Summer Drug Awareness Program with the funding.

City officials had acted with lightening speed after SEMSA officially offered the grant during a May 1 meeting, attended by Al Shelly, help center director, according to Margaret Leduc, temporary director of the Youth Assistance Program.

Shelly, assisted by Eunice Johnson, from Family Neighborhood Services, Romulus Police Chief Charles Wilmoth, William Murphy, director of Adult Education, William Nash, General Motors union representative and Leduc, prepared the grant proposal within two weeks of the meeting, Leduc said.

Leduc, who was part-time director of the Romulus Emergency Preparedness Department as well as Romulus Youth Assistance, was appointed by Mayor Beverly McAnally as director of REPD, exclusively. She had been director of the youth program since its inception last May. That position is now open and applications are being reviewed for a full-time Youth Assistance director.

"With the growth and expansion of Romulus, many different hazards have been identified in the community. The Emergency Preparedness Department will be moved to the police department where they will be directly involved with an immediate response," said Leduc.

Chris Miloser, a former English teacher at Romulus High School and certified substance abuse counselor, was selected coordinator of the Summer

Drug Awareness Program.

These changes are effective July 1, according to Leduc, and the position would be funded by the grant through the summer at which time a new grant proposal would be initiated. Leduc's new position is currently included in the 1987-88 city budget.

"The Summer Drug Awareness Program coordinator will work with the Mayor's Task Force, advising and giving direction. More long range plans will be initiated for youth and problems related to youth.

Everybody is very excited about the upcoming changes," said Leduc.

The Youth Assistance Program assisted over 35 young people during the past year, Leduc noted. "They can talk with us. You don't always see an immediate response. Problems with youth are deep rooted. These things take a long time. But we see positive changes and that's what's important," she said.

The Help Center became a reality 16 years ago, said Shelly. "Drugs are not unique to Romulus. Now, more and more people are interested because not only do individuals suffer, but families and friends as well. Substantial costs are involved. There is a reawakening as more resources become available. We have instituted a drug hotline and last month distributed a teen help card," Shelly explained.

The Help Center also offers counseling services and other assistance to people of all ages, from infants to seniors, married, singles or abused, Shelly stressed.

Special guest speaker at the annual meeting was none other than Commander Gilbert Hill of the Detroit Homicide section and star of the movie, "Beverly Hills Cop II."

"I'm a very lucky person not only because of my efforts but thanks to the efforts of many others." He added that the first question everybody asks, "What is Eddie Murphy really like?" Hill talked a few more minutes and then opened the floor for questions. Mayor Beverly McAnally asked the first one, "What's he like?"

Budget

the city budget, an estimated $2.5 million up from $1.9 last year. Department of Public Works functions with $263,000 but also $1 million for buildings and grounds, $582,000 for bridges and highways and $4,000 for drains.

The proposed 1987-88 budgets from other major departments include: Fire- $456,000; Finance- $339,000; Assessor- $323,000; Recreation- $316,000; Unresolved claims- $306,000; Clerk- $282,956; Treasurer- $211,000; Mayor- $110,000; and Council- $65,000.

McAnally explained that with a city operating millage rate of 9.2 mills, city residents pay among the lowest taxes in the state. She explained that residents whose homes have a state equalized value of $20,000 (estimated at half the cash value of the property) would pay about $184 in city taxes per year.

City Assessor Matt Raftary said his department has increased this year because the city expects to settle some impending lawsuits in the upcoming year.

ported, Zory was also found with $42,000 in cash on his person and in his briefcase.

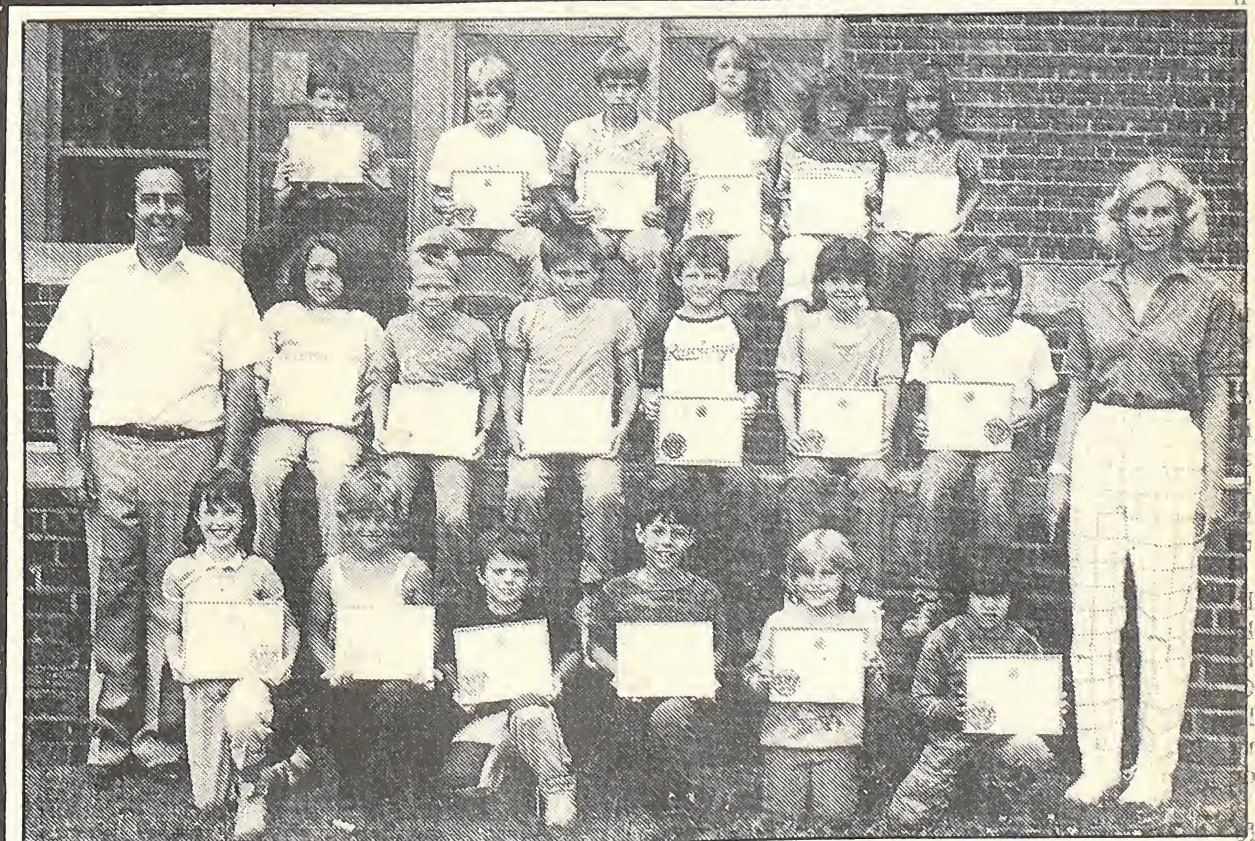

Both Romanos were born in Israel. Zory is now a resident of California with a home in New York. Anat remains in the United States illegally since her green card expired, police said.

The trail extended longer than expected because, police said, "They claimed they couldn't speak English and an interpreter was required."

Zory claimed, police said, the drugs appeared after he loaned his car to a friend. The money came from winnings at a gambling house in Greektown, he told police.

The Israeli Organizational Task Force has maintained a file on Zory since 1985. He is "known internationally as a high-level heroin importer," according to police. Police intend to pursue the acquisition of Romano's assets, a spokesman said.

Officer Dwayne Smith of Romulus is credited with the investigation of the Romanos after answering a call from the hotel management about disorderly conduct on the part of Anat.

CITY OF ROMULUS CHAPTER X, ARTICLE 10 AN ORDINANCE TO PROVIDE FOR THE CONTROL, USE, MANUFACTURE, SALE, DELIVERY, POSSESSION, AND ADVERTISEMENT OF DRUG PARAPHERNALIA AND TO PROVIDE FOR PENALTIES FOR VIOLATION THEREOF:

THE CITY OF ROMULUS ORDAINS:

Section 1: SHORT TITLE: This ordinance shall be known and cited as the "Drug Paraphernalia Ordinance."

Section 2: DEFINITIONS:

(a) The term "drug paraphernalia" means all equipment, products and materials of any kind which are used, intended for use, or designed for use in painting, propagating, cultivating, producing, processing, preparing, testing, analyzing, packaging, repackaging, storing, containing, concealing, injecting, ingesting, inhaling, or otherwise introducing into the human body a controlled substance in violation of state or local law. It includes, but is not limited to:

1. Kits used, intended for use, or designed for use in planting, propagating, cultivating, growing or harvesting of any species of plant which is a controlled substance or from which a controlled substance can be derived;
2. Kits used, intended for use, or designed for use in manufacturing, compounding, converting, producing, processing, or preparing controlled substance.
3. Isomerization devices used, intended for use, or designed for use in increasing the potency of any species of plant which is a controlled substance;
4. Testing equipment used, intended for use, or designed for use in identifying or in analyzing the strength, effectiveness or purity of controlled substances;
5. Scales and balances used, intended for use, or designed for use in weighting or measuring controlled substances;

6. Diluents and adulterants, such as quinine hydrochloride, mannitol, mannite, dextrose and lactose, used, intended for use, or designed for use in cutting controlled substances.
7. Separation gins and sifters used, intended for use or designed for use in removing twigs and seeds from, or in otherwise cleaning or refining marijuana;
8. Blenders, bowls, containers, spoons and mixing devices used, intended for use, or designed for use in compounding controlled substances;
9. Capsules, balloons, envelopes and other containers used, intended for use or designed for use in packaging small quantities of controlled substances;

11. Hypodermic syringes, needles and other objects used, intended for use or designed for use in parenterally injecting controlled substances into the human body.
12. Objects used, intended for use or designed for use in ingesting, inhaling or otherwise introducing marijuana, cocaine, hashish, or hashish oil into the human body, such as:

- (a) metal, wooden, acrylic, glass, stone, plastic, or ceramic pipes with or without screens, permanent screens, hashish heads, or punctured metal bowls;

- (d) roach clips: meaning objects used to hold burning materials, such as a marijuana cigarette, that has become too small or too short to be held in the hand;
- (e) miniature cocaine spoons and cocaine vials;
- (f) chamber pipes;
- (g) carburetor pipes;
- (h) electric pipes;
- (i) air-driven pipes;
- (j) chilums;
- (k) bongs;
- (l) ice pipes or chillers;

(B) In determining whether an object is "drug paraphernalia" a court or other authority should consider in addition to all other logically relevant factors, the following:

1. Statements by an owner or by anyone in control of the objects concerning its use;
2. Prior convictions, if any, of an owner, or of anyone in control of the object under any state or federal law relating to any controlled substances;

Direct or circumstantial evidence of the intent of an owner, or of anyone in control of the object, to deliver it to persons whom he knows, intends to use the object to facilitate a violation of state or local law; the innocence of an owner, or of anyone in control of the object, as to a direct violation of state law shall not prevent a finding that the object is intended for use, or designed for use as drug paraphernalia;
7. Instruction, oral or written, provided with the object concerning its use;

8. Descriptive materials accompanying the object which explain or depict its use;
9. National and local advertising concerning its use;

Section 5: ADVERTISEMENT OF DRUG PARAPHERNALIA: It is unlawful for any person to place in any newspaper, magazine, handbill, sign, poster, or other publication any advertisement, knowing that the purpose of the advertisement in whole or in part is to promote the sale of objects designed or intended for use as drug paraphernalia.

Section 6: EXCEPTIONS: This ordinance shall not apply to manufacturers, wholesalers, jobbers, licensed medical technicians, technologists, nurses, hospitals, research teaching institutions, clinical laboratories, medical doctors, osteopathic physicians, dentist, chiropractors, veterinarians, pharmacists and embalmers in the normal legal course of their respective business or profession, nor to persons suffering from diabetes, asthma, or any other medical condition requiring self-injection.

A woman of substance

Real strength is not always marked by muscles and brawn. The most important strength, that of moral character, a sense of values and justice and a regard for the rights of others, is nearly always marked by a quiet demeanor and an aura of calm. Those who truly possess such qualities very seldom, if ever, discuss them. Their conduct is much more elequent about their beliefs than any rhetioic.

We became aware of such a display of strength quite by accident recently when a Romulus city councilman phoned to discuss another issue with us. In casual conversation, he mentioned a recent incident at a city budget hearing which impressed upon us the real meaning of strength, dignity and responsibility of public office.

The councilman, Barry Baumann, was talking about the Romulus mayor, Beverly McAnally. Now, nearly everyone in this area knows Mrs. McAnally, but few understand the real courage, strength and moral fiber she possesses. She's quiet about it, but McAnally is one of a rare breed. She's a politician who takes her responsibility to her community very, very seriously.

That's not to say others do not. We seem blessed in this area with the number of elected officials we have that do understand the nature of their jobs...but McAnally, by all standards, is someone very special.

At the meeting of city administrators, it was suggested that the standards for Romulus police officers be lowered in an effort to make more local residents qualify for the job.

In many municipalities, it might have been considered, should enough political pressure have been exerted and favors called in. Not in this case, however.

McAnally stood firm. The standards for the men and women protecting the residents of her city were not about to be lowered to accomodate anyone. She was, we are told, quiet, firm and immovable in her resolve to uphold the level of protection those who elected her receive. There was no moving the mayor on this one.

We commend her and applaud her actions. But moreover, we are reminded of the type of mayor Beverly McAnally has become during her tenure of office.

She has evidently not forgotten that not so long ago, she was as inexperienced in the political machinations of municipal government as any of her present constituents. We are sometimes reminded of Mrs. McAnally's start in public service--as a Girl Scout leader. She has come a long, long way in a very short time, and while she obviously has mastered the treacherous task of management and the even more dangerous art of politics, Beverly McAnally has not forgotten where her first responsibility rests.

The people of Romulus are fortunate, indeed, as are we all to know her and work with her. She is a good politician, a fine administrator, but above all, an exceptional human being.

State agency is all wet

Almost $60 million is a terrible thing to waste.

Wayne residents should be chanting that statement this week after learning that a proposed premier development in the city industrial park - estimated by city officials to be worth about $60 million - may never become a reality if the state Department of Natural Resources doesn't act quickly. Very quickly.

State DNR officials recently determined that the 40 acres on which the industrial complex would be built are also "untouchable" wetlands. Wetlands, according to the state environmental agency, are the bogs, marshes and swamps needed to support plant and aquatic life throughout the state. In order to construct anything on an area determined to be a wetland, developers must first obtain a special permit from the state DNR and promise to relocate an equal amount of the displaced wetlands near the development. Not a huge problem in theory, perhaps, but the permit could take up to four months to obtain, and the relocated land now also becomes untouchable.

And, worst of all, the Jervis Webb company - like most major developers - isn't quite ready to sit back and wait. The company has informed Wayne city officials that if another 40-acre site, wherever it may be, is found without this wetlands problem, the $60 million development in the city of Wayne will become only a passing dream.

But the problem of wetlands isn't unique to the city of Wayne. Van Buren Township recently lost the chance to be the home of a major Ford Motor Company plant. Why? Because the state DNR has again surprised everyone just when the planning stages of a development were being finalized to say that the land is wet and the development is no more.

But, in our opinion, the state DNR is really the agency that is all wet in this dilemma. Several local municipal bodies have urged the state agency to provide a list of every area in the county that falls under this wetlands provision. Such a list would be useful for city officials before they begin to negotiate the sale of vacant land in the city in hopes of securing major industrial complexes. Such a list would also eliminate the very costly situation of abandoning a project just when construction is set to begin.

We're not undermining the need for a sanctuary for birds, plants and small animals to breed, live and grow through every area of the state. We realize the state environmentalists' pleas as to the importance of these wetlands in the natural food cycle.

What we are advocating is some advance planning. The Jervis Webb plant in Wayne was set to be constructed June 1. About 150 new jobs were promised in the city, and thousands of dollars were spent by architects and engineers in providing the plans for the major industry.

The state DNR must act quickly to alleviate this problem. In Wayne, Van Buren Township and in all of Michigan. Who knows how many wetlands are lurking behind every new shopping mall, factory and housing project in the area? Who knows how much money will be poured down the drain at the expense of poor DNR planning and management.

Indeed, $60 million is a terrible thing to waste. Even the DNR can agree with that.

sue willett speaking

Pushed over the edge

I think I'm going crazy.

I'n not going willingly, however, and I'm not going alone. I'm being pushed, prodded and nudged right over the edge by the circumstances surrounding the lives of all consumers today. With shopping conditions in this day and age, sanity isn't easy to hang onto.

My first sympton was my unreasonable expectation of service in restaurants. Not the fast food places, but, you know, real restaurants. I realized that, obviously, there must really be some neurons synapsing improperly upstairs when I repeatedly requested service from the waitress at one of these establishments.

My demands, I admit, were somewhat exotic. I asked for butter for my roll. After my third request, I should have known that it wasn't going to be provided. Neither was the glass of ice water I had also been foolish enough to expect. I will admit, however, she was polite. She kept smiling and apologizing for her errors to humor me, lest I become violent- but she never did produce either the butter or the water.

When the bill was presented, long after the meal, sans butter and water, was completed, she totaled it at $5.10. I gave her a $10 bill and she gave me $2.35 in change. While this didn't seem quite accurate to me, I left her a $1 tip to show I was a good sport.

I guess my next symptoms appeared in a shopping mall. I realized that I had gone over the edge when I actually had the audacity to expect that salespeople would help and assist me. Any well-adjusted person would know that this is not the way of the world any longer.

I understood my folly when a salesperson responded to my request for directions to an item using a tone of voice Alexis Colby might employ when disciplining a dilatory servant.

I knew then that I had gone too far. It was becoming more and more apparent that I was poised on the brink of a real mental crisis when I actually went so far as to request that a gasoline station attendant clean my windshield.

While I thought I was making a perfectly reasonable request as I was parked at a "full service" pump, the attendant informed me, in no uncertain terms, that this label meant he pumped the gas, nothing more.

When I requested that he put air in my low tire, he wasn't quite so kind, however. Personally, I didn't feel too badly, but my passenger, a former merchant marine, was really embarrassed by the attendant's language.

Quite frankly, I began to fantasize. I dreamt of restaurants with polite, efficient waiters. I imagined department stores with smiling, helpful clerks who actually knew where things were and were happy to share the knowledge. I yearned for a gas station where they asked to check my water and oil. My dreams grew wilder and wilder until I actually thought of merchants being pleased to see me shopping in their stores and smiling at me. My fantasies knew no bounds.

Then it happened. I was thrust over the brink and into the blackness beyond by a clerk in a large department store. I was trying to buy a gift for my son, which didn't really seem too great a task.

I had been unable to locate the item on my own and asked directions of a sweet-looking, grey-haired lady wearing the badge of a "sales associate."

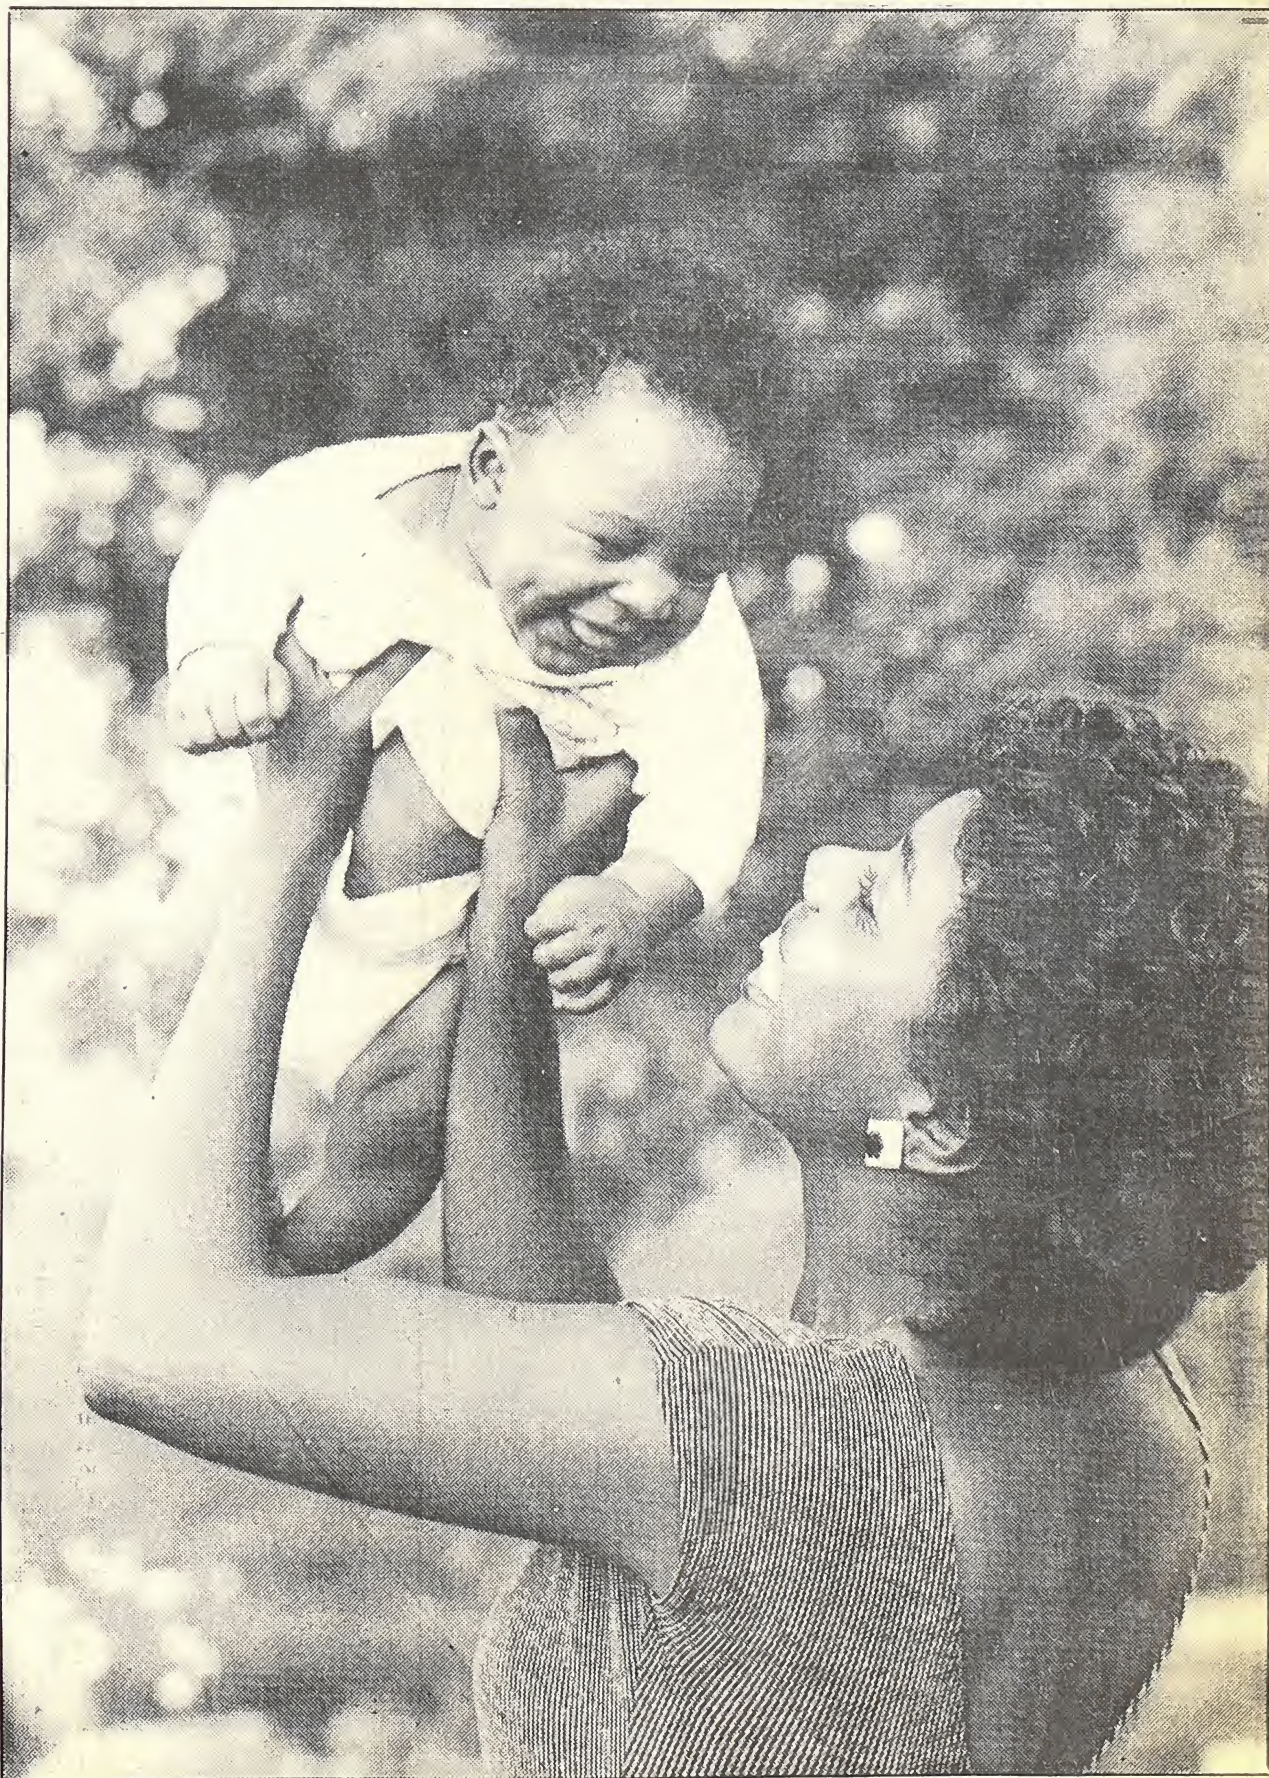

She informed me I'd find the item downstairs with the clear implication that I had the IQ of a turtle. Following her directions was no small task, but entering the computer department, I did manage to search out and locate the item as three clerks stood in the corner of the store laughing and whispering at me. They were enjoying my dilemma, I know it.

Finally, without assistance, I found the proper item and rejoiced in my victory. My triumph was short-lived, however, as I realized that all three of the clerks had run off and

Community park needed in Wayne

To The Editor:

I would like to suggest that the city of Wayne build a beautiful public plaza. I would like to see this patterned after the Garden City site on Ford and Middlebelt Rds.

I think the appropriate place for this would be on Michigan Avenue where that terrible fire took place. Let beauty arise from the ashes of this ugly sore spot in downtown Wayne.

Local veteran defends memorial

To the Editor:

I am a Korean Veteran and a member of the V.F.W. Post 3323 and very proud to be part of the so-called "Unfinished Ugly Vietnam Memorial." Do you know what went into this monument, and why did you not help put things together? You didn't give your name, so who wouldn't expect your help. There are a lot of WWII and Korean Veterans that have given theirhelp in this effort. They proudly did their part in the festivities around the Memorial on May 25, honoring the men and women that gave their lives to basically preserve the principles of freedom. Because this was the dream of a Vietnam Veteran, that happens to be a legislator of this city, does not make the tribute to this memorial political.

'My dad, also my hero'

This weekend, I will once again, do what I do every third Saturday of every June. I will go into a frenzy at the mall trying to find just the perfect Father's Day present for "dear old dad".

I'll wander into countless men's clothing stores, looking through those boring checkered shirts and Farrah slacks and pricing BVD Tee shirts. I'll pick up one or two pairs of white tube socks and put them down again, reminding myself that I buy those for Dad on nearly every occasion that calls for a gift.

Sooner or later, I'll end up going home with a massive headache, and no gift.

And once again, this year, Dad will give me his usual speech about how he doesn't want me to go out and buy him any gifts.

He knows, however, that I would never do that, just as I know that he secretly looks forward to opening those presents, which are always wrapped in those masculine hues of brown or blue.

My main problem is this: How can any checkered shirt or pair of white tube socks possibly compare with all that my dad has given me throughout my lifetime?

Granted, I'm well aware that Dad would never expect a thing in return for anything that he has done for his family. He can be a very proud man and he will usually shrug off any of the janice friz speaking say, "Don't think of it".

There are some things, however, that one just does not dismiss, and Dad's care for his family is definitely one of them.

For as far back as I can remember, I don't think that there was ever very much that I, or the rest of my family, ever had to go without, when it came to both necessities and those little extras, because we were blessed with a hard-working father who always put the family's needs in front of his own.

Dad has worked many overtime hours in a hot shop, not to buy anything for himself, but so that he could provide his family with a secure, comfortable environment.

Here's one example of how he puts our needs in front of his own. Dad currently drives a 1977 Dodge Aspen, which he originally bought for me to drive back in 1982. That car certainly has seen better days. When he first bought it for me, I was so excited. Here was this beautiful white car, trimmed in baby blue, and to top it off, it had a sunroof! Well, four years thanks that we give him, as if to and some thousands of miles later, it became apparent to Dad that the car posed a serious threat to my well-being. It had been through a couple of fender-benders, had rusted out terribly and had forced me to call Dad from many a pay phone after it had died on the road.

Rather than junk the car, Dad decided to take it on himself, and buy a better car for me to drive. He did the same for my brother not too long before this happened. His philosophy was that he'd rather his family be in the safer cars.

That car has now become sort of a family joke, because we can always hear when Dad's coming down the street.

The material things aren't really important, though. Dad has also been there for us during times of family crisis. He's stuck by Mom through a difficult illness and has taught us the meaning of "for better or worse".

As I am writing this, my grandfather is in a hospital, fiercely battling the last stages of cancer. I see what my Mom is going through, watching her Dad grow weaker with every passing day.

It certainly seems a fitting time to realize how precious our Dads are to us, and to thank, not only my own father, but all fathers, for the beautiful gift of life that they have given to their children.

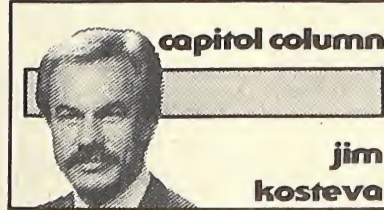

Happy Father's Day, Dad.

Child support is studied

It is well established in Michigan law that parents who are living apart after divorce, or parents who were never married, are still responsible for their children's health and security. The state Legislature has made it clear that the responsibilities of parenthood do not end when a family no longer lives together. Single parents faced with the expenses of raising children are entitled to any help the other parent is able to give.

Under state law, the court may order child support payments in a divorce settlement, or in the case of unmarried parents, after paternity is established. The scheduled payments are based on the child's needs and the financial situation of the non-custodial parent - the parent who lives apart from the child.

The Michigan Child Support Enforcement Program, implemented by the Department of Social Services, is a federal, state and local effort aimed at collecting child support from parents who are legally obligated to pay. A custodial parent having trouble getting child support from the absent parent may request enforcement through this program. Specialists can help locate absent parents, enforce the child support orders and collect payments. The program also enforces court orders regulating custody and visitation and mediation any disputes relating to those orders.

Recent statistics prove the effectiveness of this program. Michigan is number one in the nation in the collection of child support and alimony payments, according to state records. A package of bills introduced in the state House would further secure the well-being of single parents and their children by bringing Michigan into compliance with federal law on support orders and restrictions.

In most states, a child support order can be modified only in such a way as to affect future payments. In Michigan and some other states, however, a court can retroactively eliminate a debt or arrearage accumulated by the non-custodial parent. These after-the-fact adjustments in support payments do not give the custodial parent - who was counting on the promised amount - time to prepare for a permanent loss of these funds.

The proposed legislation would prohibit retroactive reductions in child support payments and grant "full faith and credit" to orders for payment from out-of-state. Absent parents would no longer have an incentive to avoid paying in a timely fashion, since all payments would be guaranteed upheld and payable in court.

hidden from me. I searched frantically for them, clutching my son's gift to me and waving my money in the air.

Finally, I spotted one of the salesmen trying to hide in the typewriter department. Pushed over the precarious precipice of all reason, I grabbed the man by the arm and thrust my cash at him. "Please, please take my money," I sobbed. "I won't ever bother you again, just please, let me buy this from you."

He jerked away from me haughtily and replied, "Sorry, lady, I don't work in that department."

That's when I knew there was no hope for me. There really is a plot to drive consumers crazy.

It's working.

Oakwood's Women & Children's Health Care Center

Babies have a special place at Oakwood

The most special place for a new baby is in the loving arms of its parents. We can't replace the personal care given by a mother and father. But we can give babies very special attention at Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center.

Our expert group of physicians and nurses is specially trained in the care of expectant mothers and newborns, delivering more than 4,000 babies a year. And, for high-risk babies and mothers who need much closer attention, highly skilled neonatologists and obstetricians are on duty 24 hours a day.

In addition, we offer a range of services for expectant mothers - from prenatal testing and exercise classes to a birthing room that feels like home. And we haven't forgotten the little things, either - like classes for fathers in the fine art of changing diapers and gourmet dinners for brand new parents who want to celebrate in a special way.

Our care extends to women of other ages, too. We're concerned about general wellness - whether you're a grandmother, a teenager or anywhere in between.

For more information about our services - including tours, brochures or classes - call Oakwood Hospital's Women and Children's Health Care Center, 593-7694. We'd like to show you what special care is all about.

We often get questions about how Michigan Lottery revenues support education. Details are provided below.

Q: How much has the Lottery contributed toward education since its start?

A: Lottery net revenues for education have totaled about $2.5 billion since the first ticket was sold in November of 1972.

Q: How is this money used?

A: The governor signed legislation in May of 1981 which specifically earmarks revenues from all Michigan Lottery games for the state School Aid Fund to help support kindergarten-12th grade education. Prior to that time, the money first went into the general fund, along with other revenues for schools.

Q: How is the money given to school districts?

A: Lottery revenues are disbursed to individual school districts by the Michigan Department of Education according to terms of the state School Aid Formula which was developed by the legislature.

Q: How much does the Lottery contribute?

A: During the 1985-86 fiscal year, the Lottery's contribution exceeded $415 million, or about 22 percent of money in that fund. Other fund money comes from various state taxes and is then supplemented by general fund revenue.

Q: Has the Lottery contribution been increasing?

A: Yes. In fact, it has more than doubled since the 1981-82 fiscal year. For the past two years, it has exceeded the amount provided by the federal government.

Q: Why haven't my school taxes gone down then?

A: The annual state budget for support of elementary and secondary education has also increased during the past few years. So, while your taxes may not have come down, maintaining the same level of educational funding without Lottery revenues would have cost the average Michigan household an additional $130 last year alone.

Q: How does this compare to previous years?

A: In the Lottery's first year, 1972-73, the equivalent figure would have been about $11 per household. This grew to about $64 in 1981-82, and came to approximately $113 in 1984-85.

For submitting the question leading to this column, 50 tickets to the current instant game, "Winning Numbers," have been sent to Donna Vanderwall of Ontonagon.

Exclusive
Coin shop sells series

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

It didn't take the handsome prince to bring attention to one Wayne business.

The Snow White commemorative coin available at the Wayne Family Coin and Gold shop on Michigan Avenue is becoming increasingly popular. In fact, the coin commemorating the 50th anniversary of the popular Walt Disney character has become almost an exclusive product to the local business.

Mike Armstrong, co-owner of Wayne Family Coin and Gold shop on Michigan Avenue in Wayne, stands behind the counter, ready for the impending flood of collectors and first-time buyers.

The exact date of Snow White's golden anniversary is July 17, 1987. This is only the second commemorative coin the Disney people have ever issued, Armstrong said. A Mickey Mouse coin was issued earlier this year to commemorate the 50 years that have passed since Mickey appeared in his first movie, Steamboat Willie.

profile

Eleven different coins will be issued in the Disney series, Armstrong said, including one for Snow White, Sleepy, Sneezy, Grumpy, Happy, Dokey, Bashful, Doc, the Wicked Witch, the Hunter Witch and the Prince.

"Now people won't have trouble remembering all seven dwarf names," Armstrong said with a smile.

A new Disney coin will be introduced every six weeks.

The limited, first-edition proof sets are available in coins of one-tenth gold, one-quarter gold, one ounce silver and five ounces of silver. Costs range from $32.50 for the one-ounce silver piece to $300 for the one-quarter gold piece.

"This is the year for Snow White. You'll see her face everywhere on television, in newspapers and magazines.

Sandra Armstrong

People are buying the coins just because they're Disney characters. Most people are non-coin collectors. It's a good investment," Armstrong explained.

"People want these type of coins because they are limited editions, different and appreciate in value. Last year, we sold the Liberty Coin proof set for $175. Now, six months later, that same set is worth $400," Armstrong explained.

Unexpected storm may hit market

With this week being the "double-triple-witching week," it may be difficult to understand market movements. But it may be safe to say that index buyers and traders have been on the long side of the market.

Notwithstanding national, international, or Fed action, the market may be pushed to new heights. What follows this expiration? May we see weakness develop if market support is suddenly withdrawn, or index traders roll their positions to the short side. Earnings reports will be coming out for the second quarter, and they may be hard-pressed to support prices at the current levels. For this week, interest rates will remain flat and have little affect on the market. However, gold and silver prices may take an unexpected hit.

For this week, the short-term traders will hold present positions and be early-session buyers. Enthusiasm may slow at the end of the session, as intensions of index traders become clearer. The intermediate-term traders will also be willing buyers, and may add early-session support to the market. Long-term traders continue to sit on the sidelines and will look to Fridays closing action.

For this week, I see considerable enthusiasm as most traders feel that index buyers want a rising market. It appears that any negative news will be brushed aside until much later in the session. Friday may be a difficult trading day. Early settlement may cause a negative market reaction.

TRENDS: The lowering of the dollar, has caused a rise in M-2. This in turn has caused imports to become more expensive, causing consumers to become reluctant to purchase higher priced goods.

NOTE: The Venice Economic Conference ended with out any new accords to stabilize the dollar, fend off a recession or curb the huge U.S. budget deficit: Auto makers plan to cut output 12.8 percent in the third quarter: Jobless rate stayed at 6.3 percent in May.

Beauty: Resident welds way to Grand Prix title

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Tonight, Gail Storm, 18, of Romulus won't be wearing her face mask, protective gloves and coveralls. That outfit is appropriate only when attending one of her daytime welding classes.

Tonight, the 5-foot, 2-inch mechanically-talented beauty will be sporting a swimsuit and modeling a stunning evening gown at the Sixth annual Miss Grand Prix Beauty Pageant at the Premier Center in Sterling Heights. She will compete with 100 other young women from throughout the state, vying for the coveted Grand Prix beauty crown.

focus

And Storm will have one distinct advantage over many of the other contestants. Beneath that tough exterior is a charming, bright and talented person. And she knows how to weld.

Born in Hudson, New York, and raised in Wayne County, Storm's family moved to Romulus three years ago. She has two prospective jobs lined up for the summer.

ASSOCIATED NEWSPAPERS: Okay, why are you studying welding? You must be the only woman in your class.

STORM: Yes, I am the only woman in my class. But there are two of us in the Welding Technology program at Ferris State College. It was during high school that I was the only girl in the class. I studied welding for two years and graduated from Woodhaven High School in 1986. Teachers there were great. They taught us how do a little of everything. In college, we learn more about the theories and chemical properties of metals.

I have to admit being the only girl in the class makes me feel important. When I tell guys I'm taking welding, their eyes bug out, and their mouth falls to the floor. But when a woman has a trade like this, there's lots of opportunity.

After I graduate, I hope to become a sales representative for some manufacturing company. Maybe I'll go on for a master's. We'll see what happens. Maybe I'll model for a welding company.

ANP: What does your family think?

STORM: They're 100 percent behind me. Nobody in my family is a welder. My dad works as a butcher at Farmer Jack. My older brother is 26 years old. I also have five foster sisters.

ANP: Have you always had foster brothers and sisters?

STORM: After my brother turned 18 and left home, my parents wanted to share this country life with some disadvantaged children. We live in a real old farm house on five acres. We've got every animal you can name, including horses, chickens, ducks, goats and rabbits. If we don't have it now, we did. There's a humongous old barn and three greenhouses. It's just nice to walk around.

They only take care of girls between the ages of 12 and 18. Over the years, I bet over 50 girls have stayed here. A lot of different personalities. Some are really difficult. Sometimes we get along great, and others we fight with. Most of the time, we're one big happy family, and we get attached. The longest time any body stayed with us was three years. My brother likes all the attention he gets.

ROAD FUNDING FOR WAYNE COUNTY

WHEREAS: The level of growth in Wayne County has outpaced the ability of the Wayne County Office of Public Services to provide needed county road maintenance and improvements; and

WHEREAS: The Office of Public Services in conjunction with officials of local units of government, has conducted a comprehensive study of needed county road improvements and maintenance needs; and

WHEREAS: It has been estimated that the costs of those county road needs will exceed available revenues by more than $500 million over the next decade; and

WHEREAS: A comprehensive funding strategy to meet these road needs is necessary;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus hereby supports the following comprehensive strategy for funding road needs:

- Legislative adoption of the funding package proposed by the Urban Association of County Road Commissions and summarized as follows:
 - Permanently remove the existing cap on the state fuel tax, and, if necessary, adjust the base to generate two cents of additional fuel tax each year for the next three years.
 - Increase the Michigan Transportation Fund (MTF) by 15% in 1987 through the additional fuel tax and the reduction of discounts and administrative fees.
 - Increase the urban percentage of the road Commission internal formula from 10% to 15%.
 - Create an Economic Development Fund using three cents of the six cent state fuel tax increase proposed above and all available federal discretionary funds. This Economic Development Fund will support three equally funded programs:
 - Future development road program with a minimum of 25% to go to counties with less than 400,000 population.
 - Trunkline takeover program to enlarge the state trunkline system and provide a more comprehensive state road network.
 - Capacity improvement program to reduce road congestion in urban areas, with the largest share coming to Wayne County.
- Legislative authorization for county road commission to place on the ballot local-option registration fees within counties, with the revenues to be returned to the road commission and cities and villages proportional to current MTF receipts.
- Legislative authorization for local-option traffic impact fees charged to developers to mitigate the impacts of their actions on the road network.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus urges officials at the state, county and local levels of government to support such actions and work for their implementation.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus forward copies of this resolution to all elected officials in Wayne County and representatives in Wayne County in state government.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus requests that other units of government adopt resolutions of support similar to this and forward them to all elected officials representing Wayne County in state and county government and to the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Roll Call Vote Showing: Ayes - Banks, Baumann, Bergeron, Block, Wadsworth. Naves - None. Motion Carried Unanimously.

5B 87-217
Motion by Block, supported by Wadsworth, to concur with Mayor Beverly McAnally, and adopt the following resolution in opposition to Senate Bill No. 88:

OPPOSITION TO SENATE BILL No. 88

WHEREAS: Senate Bill No. 88, is a bill to create a Casino Control Commission as an autonomous entity in the department of commerce; and

WHEREAS: A Casino Control Commission would provide for the creation of division of gaming enforcement; to provide for the control, regulation, and licensing of casino gaming in cities having a population of more than 750,000; to prescribe duties for certain state departments and officers with respect thereto; to provide for the issuance, denial, suspension, and revocation of casino licenses, occupational licenses, and licenses of manufacturers, sellers, and distributors of gaming devices, equipment, and material; to provide for regulation of financial interest in certain corporations and holding companies; to regulate securities; to provide for powers of peace officers; to limit liability; to require bonds; to provide for the imposition, collection, and disposition of fees, taxes, and revenues; to create certain funds; to make appropriations; and to prescribe civil and criminal penalties.

WHEREAS: If Casino gambling is permitted in Detroit, 90% of the patrons will arrive through the City of Romulus, and the City is not equipped to adequately deal with the element of casino gambling.

WHEREAS: The uniqueness, the individuality and the personality of Romulus is worth preserving and that preservation has been a goal of this administration as expressed by the citizens. The adoption of Senate Bill No. 88 would adversely effect those qualities.

WHEREAS: In Atlantic City, where legalized gambling is permitted, there has been very little benefit to the community as a whole, the benefit remained within the gambling activity.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED: That the City of Romulus goes on record as vehemently opposing the passage of Senate Bill No. 88 that would allow the creation of a Casino Control Commission as an autonomous entity in the department of commerce.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all Representatives and all surrounding communities in Wayne County.

Commissioners approve youth resolution

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Members of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners intend to confront the problems of youth head on as evidenced by their recent approval of a resolution which was forwarded to the state legislature.

They have recommended the state require expectant parents under the age of 17 to take mandatory parenting classes in the local community colleges or school districts. This would be required as a condition to receive public assistance.

Also included in the resolution is a provision to add 60 beds to the County Youth Home and purchase two presently outdated facilities for renovation. Members also want increased funding for neighborhood youth crime prevention programs.

Commissioner Kay Beard explained that the resolution is "very significant." "There's a big thrust to hit hard on juvenile crime. At a recent conference keynote speaker Pat Babcock proposed a separation of youth centers, one for assaultive youth and another for youth with lesser problems. This needs to be done as soon as possible," she said. "We're locked in a cycle that needs to be broken," said Commissioner Milt Mack. "There's a tendency in society to pass problems from generation to generation. For all practical purposes, it's babies having babies. Only education can break this cycle."

"These young parents barely have the knowledge to take care of themselves. They need education," added Beard.

The proposed legislation reflects a growing problem of crime related to youth in our society, Mack explained. "It's not a problem confined to Wayne County, and it has been growing for many years. Children should have a chance."

Mack added that funding would be provided by the state and not the county.

Prep coaches dream up 'star' lineup

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Coaches like to say that pitching wins high school baseball games.

That may be true. The Associated Newspapers' 1987 High School All-Area Baseball Team has some of the finest pitching talent in this state, harvest from local schools.

But, the ANP lineup also includes 13 players who batted at a .400 or better clip. In fact, one player, Kevin Lawrence, brought the curtains down on an exciting prep career with a brilliant .513 batting average.

Moreover, the ANP club has the stuff not only to win state championships, but, if given the opportunity, would be a serious contender for the International Junior Olympics crown.

Look the lineup over and see if you don't agree. Incidentally, the team was assembled by the ANP sports staff, in cooperation with the area prep coaches from Westland John Glenn (Norm Hoenes), Wayne Memorial (Jim Chronowski), Plymouth Canton (Fred Crissey) Plymouth Salem (John Gravlin), Belleville (John Bertz), Romulus (Dennis Stoh), New Boston Huron (Jon LaBeau), Livonia Franklin (Jerry Cullin), Livonia Churchill (Herb Osterland), and Inkster (Joe Coleman).

The pitching corps consists of Ron Way (Wayne Memorial); Clint Straub (Westland John Glenn), T.J. Kramer (Livonia Franklin), Derek Darkowski (Plymouth Canton), Bill Barber (Westland John Glenn), Steve O'Harris (Belleville) and Kevin Besco (Wayne Memorial).

Westland John Glenn's versatile catcher, Mike Hammontree, who has been nominated for all-state and won a berth on the all-state football team last season, has been drafted as the all-area's backstop.

The infielders include: Lawrence (Inkster), Lance Sullivan (Livonia Churchill), Steve Waite (Plymouth Canton), Rick Tavormina (Westland John Glenn), Brad Boyd (Plymouth Canton), Paco Chavez (Livonia Franklin), Steve Malgay (Romulus), Eric Antonio (Inkster), Tim Napier (Livonia Franklin), Mike Smith (New Boston Huron).

The outfielders are: John Knittel (Livonia Churchill), Doug Quartuccio (Wayne Memorial), Bill Ashley (Belleville), Mike Heard (Wayne Memorial), Chris Scheffer (John Glenn), Mike Wozniak (Livonia Franklin), Tony Boucher (Plymouth Canton), Tim Dowd (Plymouth Salem), Brian Newcomb (Romulus), Scott Canfield (Livonia Franklin), Rich Gubbini (New Boston Huron), and Todd Marion (Plymouth Salem).

The 1987 "Coach of the Year" honor goes to Norm Hoenes, Westland John Glenn. Hoenes guided his Rockets to their second Western Lakes Activities Conference championship, compiling an overall 22-3 won-lost record during the recently concluded campaign.

Here is a brief sketch of the 1987 club and individual player accomplishments and plans:

WAY, a 6-0, 175-pound senior, leads the pitching corps. With a 7-3 won-lost record which includes the first perfect game in the area in the last two decades and a one-hitter that a single in the top of the seventh spoiled, the lefthander was the key to a title season in the Wolverine 'A' Conference. His impressive credentials include 62 innings of work on the mound in which the opposition scored only six earned runs. His earned run average (ERA) was a stingy 0.67, and he allowed only 41 hits which included eight that went for extra bases - only one home run. He notched 113 strikeouts and walked 24. Way also earned all-conference, all-district (selected by the Michigan High School Athletic Coaches in the area) and is a candidate for all-state consideration.

"Ron is one of the best young pitchers that I have ever coached," Chronowski said.

STRAUB, was part of the Rockets' 1-2 pitching punch that enabled the Westlanders to reclaim the conference title for the second straight year and post a 22-3 won-lost record. The 5-10, 155-pound hurler is a junior and will be returning to the diamond next year. In his 32 1/3 innings of work, the good-looking righthander managed to chalk up a 4-1-1 record en route to a 1.75 ERA. He whiffed 44, walked 19 and allowed eight earned runs. Straub faced 133 hitters and only 28 got hits off of him. Not only an excellent pitcher, Straub is potent with the bat. He finished with a .369 batting average.

KRAMER, who also throws righthanded, helped the Patriots capture a Class A District Championship. He won eight of his nine starts this year and finished with a 1.29 ERA. A 6-0, 170-pound senior, "T.J." pitched 65 innings and gave up 26 runs, of which only 12 were earned. He was tagged for 38 hits, but found 70 strikeout victims. A two-year varsity performer, Kramer was credited with the 6-5 victory over Henry Ford that gave Franklin the district title and he also beat Salem, 5-3, in the regional preliminary game. Franklin dropped a 1-0 game to Catholic Central in the regional finals that ended the season for Coach Cullin and the Patriots.

BARBER, undefeated and with a perfect 5-0 record, formed the other part of the Glenn knockout punch. A 5-11, 185-pound senior, whose ERA was 2.78, Barber faced 140 batters in 32 2/3 innings of work. He gave up 15 runs and 26 hits, but he fanned 26 and walked 13. The sturdy lefthander will be heading for Michigan State in the fall to continue his education and athletic career.

BESCO, the only other junior on the pitching staff, was picked all-conference after amassing a 5-0-1 record. A powerful thrower who nailed 41 batters on strikes, Kevin pitched 44 innings during which time he allowed 15 runs (only six were earned). His ERA was 0.95, and he gave up 33 hits of which two were doubles, a triple and a homer. Barber also fanned 41 and allowed only 23 to reach base via walks.

DARKOWSKI managed to win seven of the 19 decisions that Canton won this year. (The club lost eight). A southpaw who stands 5 feet, 8 and checks in at 145-pounds, Darkowski was a divisional pitching pick, and he delivered when the Chiefs needed victories the most.

O'HARRIS was the bright spot in an up-and-down Belleville season. Winning four of seven starts and with a 2.24 ERA, the 5-8, 130-pound senior lefthander carded 23 strikeouts and has the potential to be on of the best.

HAMMONTREE, who has been named to everybody's post season team, is a standout behind and at the plate. "Mike is just one terrific athlete," said Hoenes. "He is versatile and coachable and will make an excellent college player." In 77 appearances at the plate, Mike drilled 31 hits, scored 24 runs, knocked in 28 and had seven doubles, one triple and a pair of homers. He also stole 12 bases and finished the season with a .403 batting average. The 6-2, 175-pound senior was named to the all-state team in football and is a serious candidate for similar honors in baseball. He was an unanimous choice for all-conference and he also was named to the

The Westlanders were 10-0 in their division and 15-1 in the conference in 1987.

Not bad, right?
Wrong.

"It was a great year, but it came to an early end," said Hoenes who has coached varsity baseball at Glenn since the Westland-based high school open doors in 1963. The Glenn season ended in the finals of the Class A district playoffs where Detroit Catholic Central claimed a 9-8 victory over the Rockets.

Glenn managed to reach the "big four" - the Class A state semifinals before being eliminated last year by a Birmingham Brother Rice team, 1-0, at Western Michigan University.

"I felt we had a team that could have done as well," Hoenes said. "But that's the way things go in this sport. You never know."

One fact that is known: coaches in this area unanimously singled out Hoenes as "Coach of the Year."

The 48-year-old former Olivet College baseball and football star has had outstanding success with his teams in recent years. He attributed the success "to the kind of player that has been coming to Glenn."

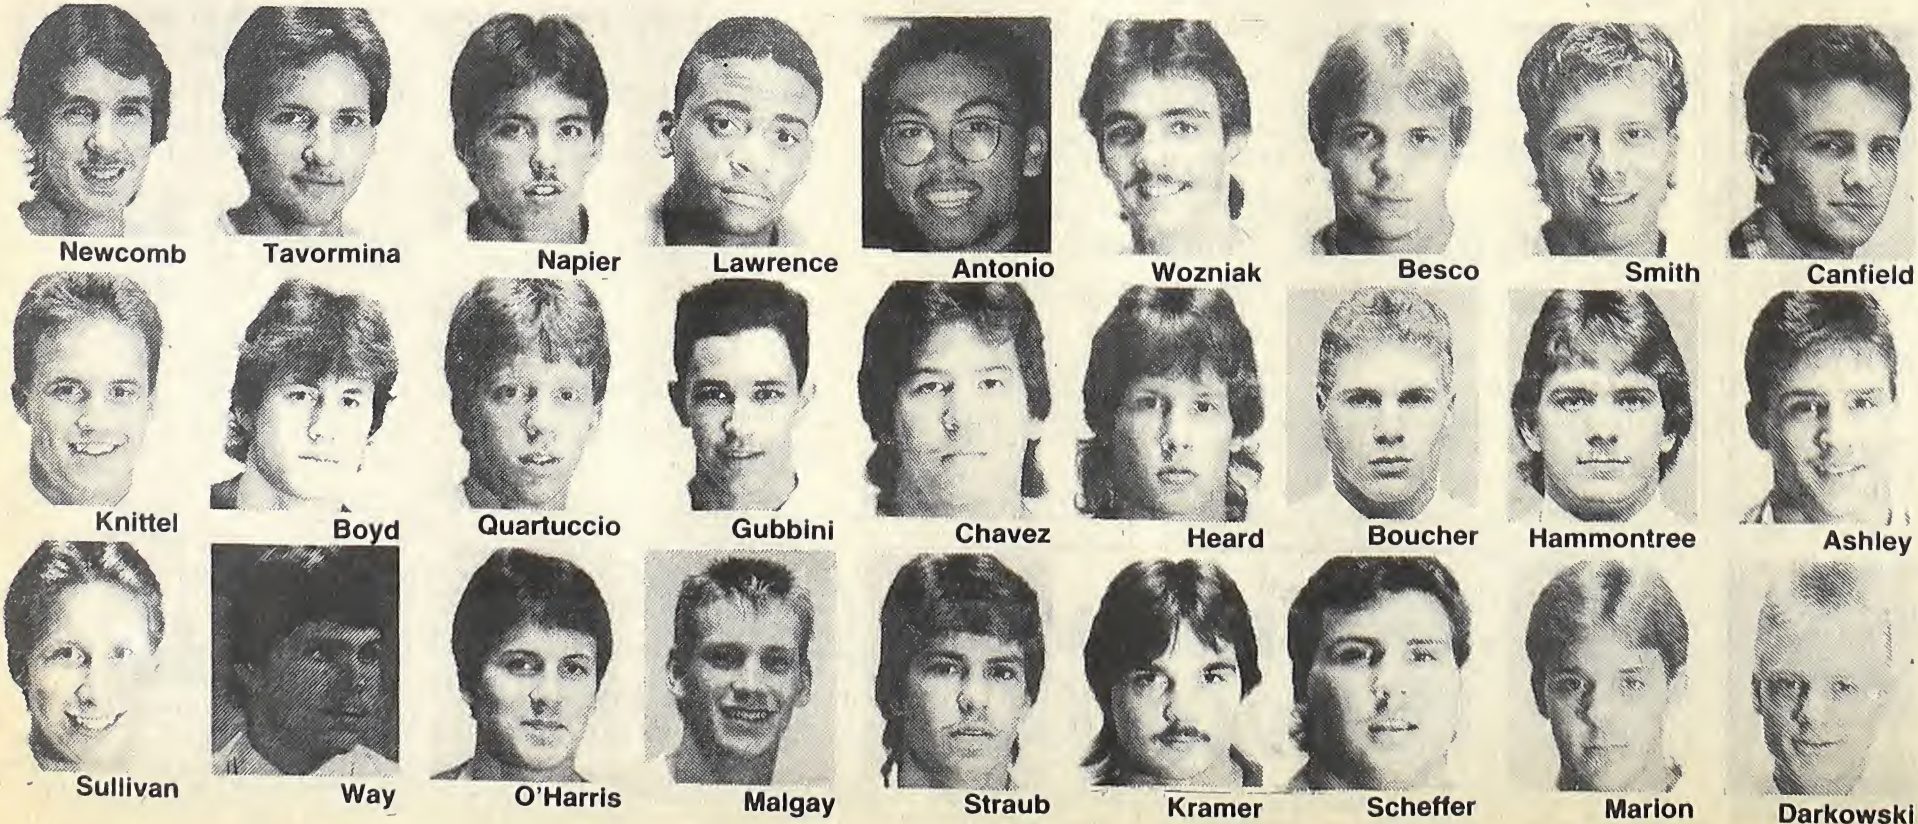

"These kids love baseball and are devoted to the game. And their parents have supported the program."

Hoenes also pointed out that the Westland Baseball Federation summer program has helped in training fine young athletes.

"The federation has definitely helped our program with their summer leagues," said Hoenes.

Although the "big one", the Class A state title, has eluded the Rockets, some feel that it will only be a matter of time when the Westlanders will go all the way.

And, with a strong nucleus of players who posted the 22-3 record this year returning to the lineup next year, 1988 may be the year Rocket baseball fans have been waiting for.

local news in brief

Airport is more handicapped-equipped

ROMULUS – The Detroit Metropolitan Airport in Romulus now has in place special vans for wheelchair-bound passengers wishing to use parking lots or terminal-to-terminal shuttle services.

A special 19-passenger van has been equipped with a hydraulic lift to accommodate wheelchairs, according to David Crisovan, operations manager for the parking management company at the airport.

Head Start program needs members

VAN BUREN TOWNSHIP – The Van Buren Head Start program, a free preschool program, is now recruiting eligible 3- and 4-year-old children for the new school year.

Head Start services children from low-income families, foster children and handicapped children. For more information, call 697-1400.

State aid payments are sent

LANSING – State aid payments for local school districts were forwarded last week, according to state Sen. William Faust (D-Westland).

Funding has been made in the amount of about $934,000 for the Inkster Public Schools, $1,038,000 for Romulus Community Schools, $5,117,560 for the Wayne-Westland Community Schools and $1,139,875 for the Van Buren Public Schools.

In addition, about $1,172,797 in Title I funds – to be used for special student programs – have been forwarded to several of the local districts.

Street corners sales are studied

WAYNE – City council members were to study current ordinances regarding street-side vending at their meeting last night.

City Attorney John McKinney said that the counsel is looking for a way to limit the number of vendors selling flowers, paintings and wares on the city streets, vendors which many times take business away from local merchants.

McKinney said that the city administration can currently enforce existing ordinances to provide such a limit, if additional rules are spelled out addressing the issue.

Cat ordinance will be studied

WAYNE – City council members are continuing to study an ordinance that would limit the number of cats allowed by residents in the city, while also possibly requiring the licensing of the animals.

Currently, the city has on the books only a dog license. City Attorney John McKinney said a new animal control ordinance should be ready for discussion by late July.

911 plan to include more cities

COUNTY – A story last week about the Enhanced 911 plan approved by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners failed to mention that both Van Buren and Sumpter townships are also a part of the plan.

The new emergency phone system will include most of western Wayne County.

Summer school classes scheduled

ROMULUS – Registration for junior and high school summer classes is being accepted through June 19 at the Junior High School on Wick Road. The cost is $65 for one class and $120 for two classes. Elementary classes are also being offered at $45 per class. Summer school begins Monday, June 22 and continues through July 30. Classes are taught during the day from 7:30 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. For information call 722-1050.

Scholarship funding available in area

INKSTER – Scholarship funding is available for qualified local students through the Public Employees Roundtable program.

U.S. Rep. Sander Levin (D-Southfield) said that the program is designed to encourage "bright, talented students to pursue careers in public service." Candidates must have completed the equivalent of one year of college, maintaining a 3.0 grade point average and be currently enrolled at the school.

For information, call Levin's office at 559-4444.

Economy, welfare main concerns

By RAY DAY
ANP Managing Editor

Foreign trade, the national deficit and arms control are the major concerns of local residents, according to results of Congressman William D. Ford's (D-Taylor) annual survey.

More than 5,500 15th Congressional District residents responded to the questionnaire, which Ford sends out each spring to collect the opinions of residents on national concerns. Respondents overwhelmingly – 81 percent – said that they supported a proposal that would require countries with excessive trade surpluses to reduce those surpluses.

William Ford

In addition, the budget deficit, arms control, national defense spending, foreign aid, welfare, education, drug programs and health care were listed as major areas that the local Congressman should be concerned with. Although not surprised at the survey results, Ford said he is pleased that the residents in his district are still in tune with the national scene.

"The issues don't change in a lot of the areas. Like education, welfare. And from time to time you have an issue that is really big, like the Vietnam war was," said Ford. "Our district is generally ad hoc. They tend to be very patriotic and tend to support the President in foreign affairs."

"But that's not the case now", Ford said that 73 percent of the survey respondents objected to the President's Aid to the Contras program. Another 90 percent said that the U.S. government should not bargain with governments that support terrorism, while 75 percent of the people in the area feel any proposal that supports President Reagan's request to place nuclear MX missiles on rail cars should be nixed.

"Over three-fourths of the district feel that Congress should require the administration to halt nuclear testing – as long as the Soviets do not test nuclear weapons," Ford explained. "They are also concerned about arms control."

Ford has been issuing the annual survey since taking office 23 years ago. The responses are always numerous, Ford said, and the results of the survey are always used to formulate his decisions and votes, Ford said.

"I think that survey is a very useful tool. Everyone that sends back a letter gets a personal response," Ford said. "I was very pleased with the number of responses I received. When I'm out in the district, I encourage people to call me Bill. I find that people will shout 'I sent you the questionnaire back' when I'm walking in parades and about in the district."

"It's always important for me to know the views of the residents in my district."

Father has double the duties

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

For Richard Morgia, of Westland, the perfect Father's Day is being at the lake with his family. The material gifts that are traditionally given to Dads are not as important to him as spending the day with his kids. He has been celebrating Father's Day for the past 16 years.

Morgia has two children, Tina, 16, and Ricky, 13, and he has been married to his wife, Fran, for 18 years.

Morgia, who works as an assistant manager for a retail jeweler, said that being a father is not always easy, and that it has its ups and downs. He sees himself as a sympathetic, yet firm father.

"I try to be firm with my kids, but I understand that they need to grow. You have to let the kids be their own person, yet they must adhere to a certain amount of regimentation, too. Actually, I used to think I'd be a lot more lenient than I am."

For Morgia, the two key things that he tries to instill in his children are responsibility and respect.

"I want them to see that they must be responsible for their own actions and I want them to always try to foresee the repercussions from what they may do. This way, they'll think about whatever they do, before they do it."

Morgia said that he has a good rapport with his children, despite the normal, everyday disagreements he sometimes encounters with them.

Being a father, Morgia said, requires a great deal of patience, and he added that he is starting to gain more now than he had before.

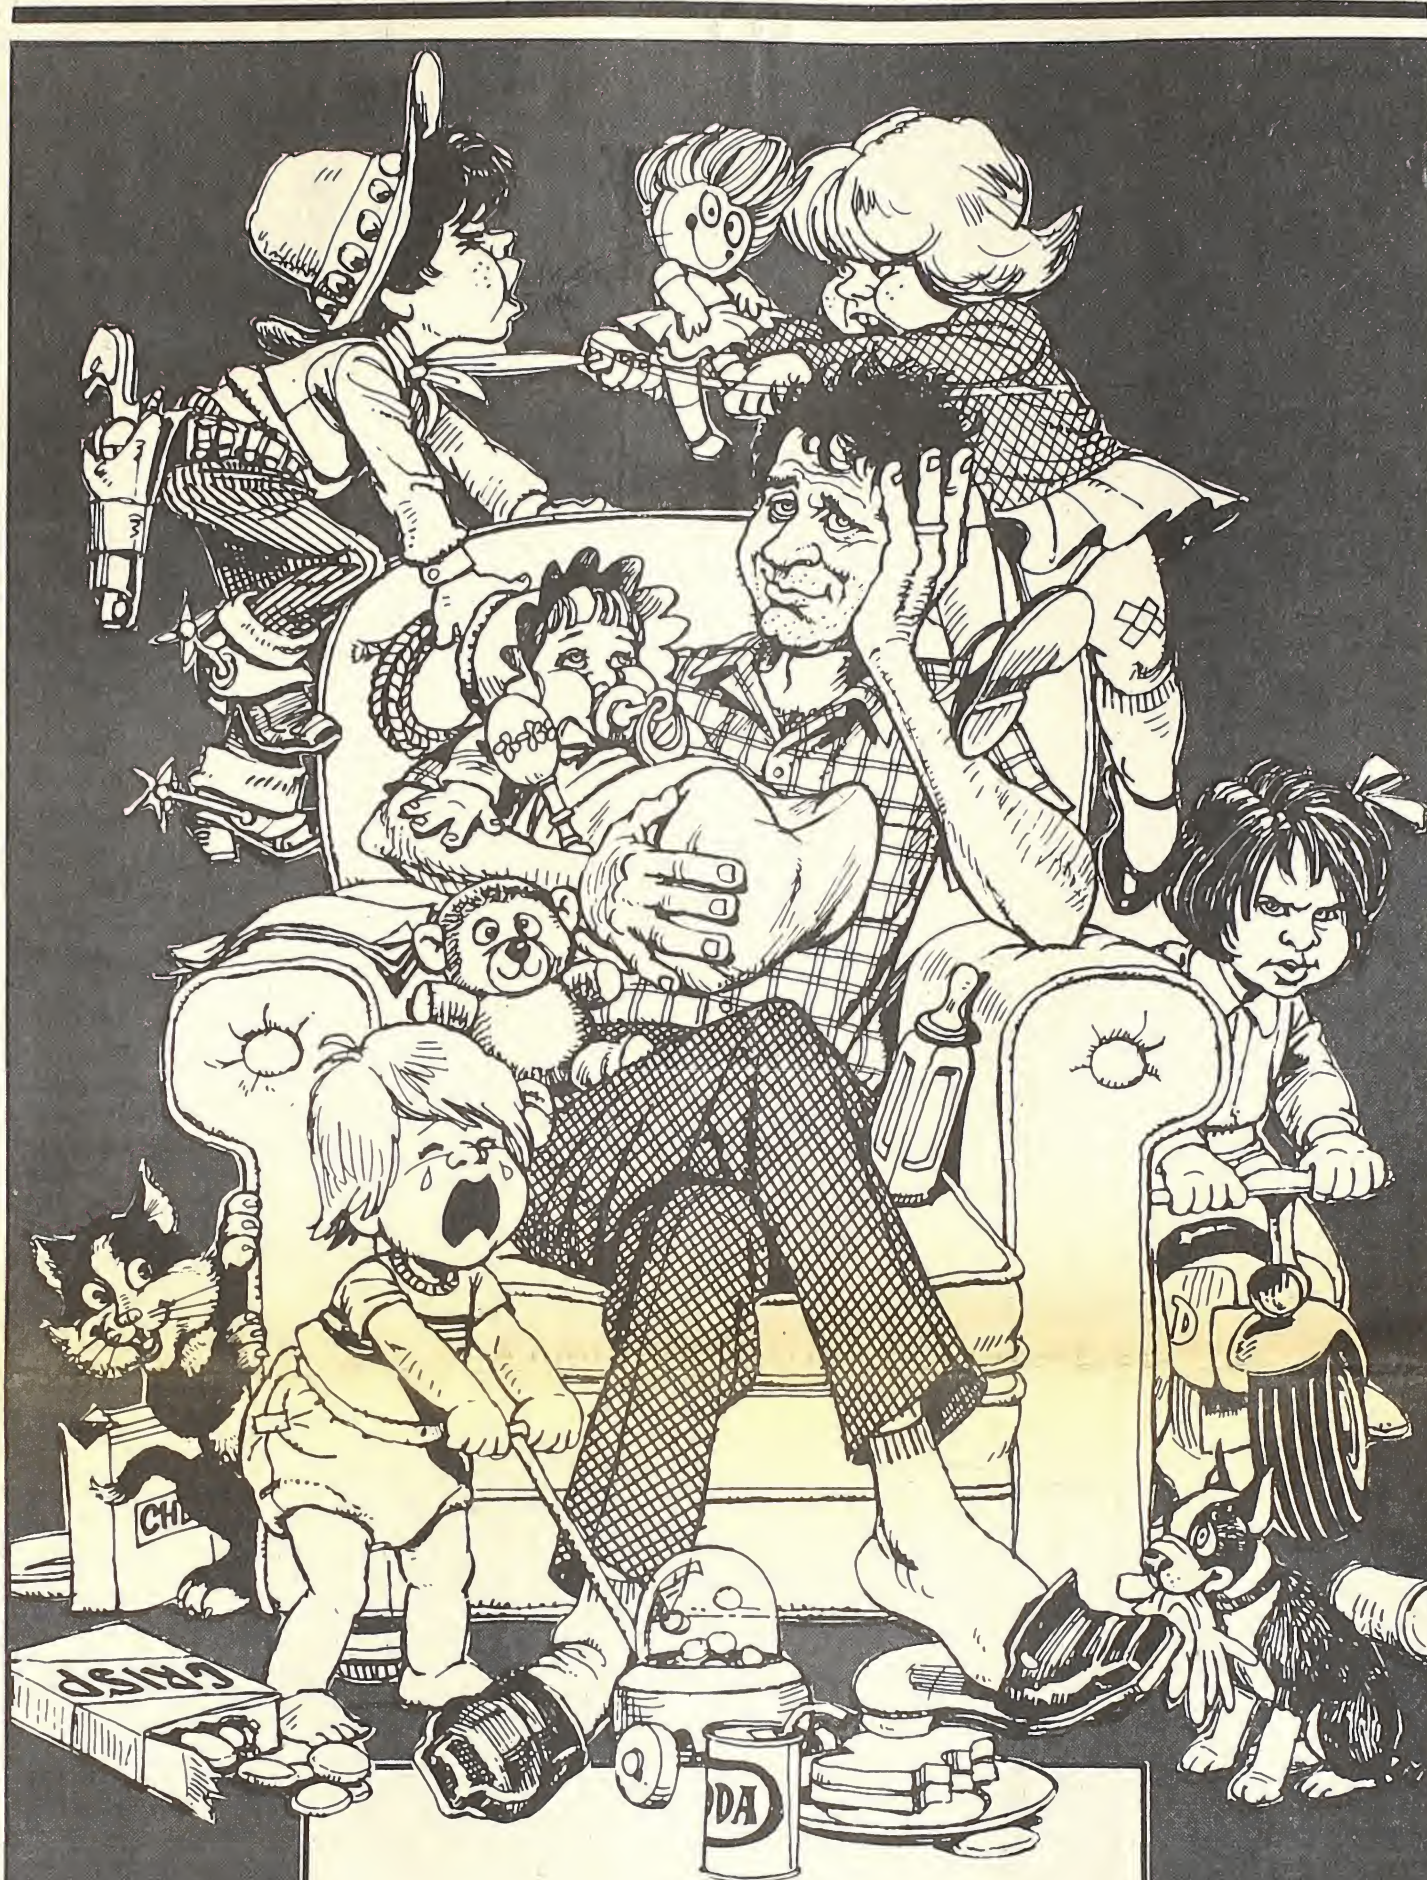

Morgia's role as a father is different from that of his father's, in the sense that his father was much more stern than he is, he said.

"Having been raised in a traditional Italian family, I quickly learned that what my father said was the final word. He put his foot down more than I do. I rarely questioned what my father would tell me to do, yet my kids always want to know why I want them to do or not do certain things."

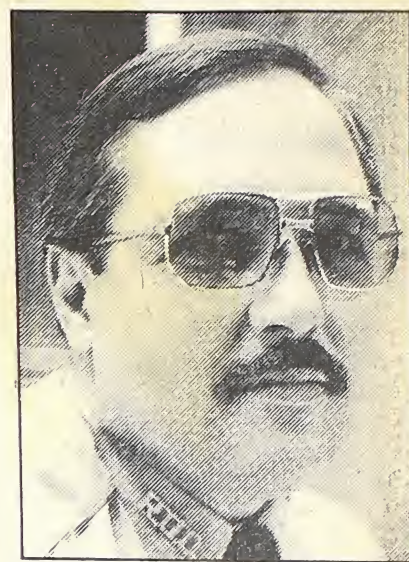

Morgia pointed out that what works well with him may not particularly work out for another father.

"I may not be the perfect father. I don't always do the right things, but it's a learning experience. Even after 16 years, I'm still learning."

Traditional dad is tough job

By JANICE FRITZ
ANP Staff Writer

For Steve Banko, being a single father can be an advantage and a disadvantage.

Banko, who is employed by the city of Romulus as the city ordinance director, has been divorced for nearly two years. He has limited custody of his 12-year-old son, Richard.

Limited custody for Banko means for six months out of the year his son can live with him. The other six months, he lives with his mother.

Banko finds that his role as a single father is a dual one. On one hand, Banko said, he can be a friend to his son, but then on the other hand, suddenly the "father-side of him will overlap."

"I keep close tabs on what my son is doing. By being a friend, I am aware of what's going on in his life. Sometimes, however, I have to lay down the law."

Banko said that being a single father is a full-time job.

"I'll work all day, then I'll come home and spend time with Richard. We divide up the housework, which I don't mind."

Banko finds that, in some respects, he has to be both the father and the mother to his son. For instance, the father side of him teaches his son responsibility and independence, but then, there are times when he needs to show emotional support to his son.

"In dual-parent homes, the father may be the educational force and the mother, the nurturing force. In my case, I'm both."

Banko said that his role as a father differs from that of his father in that, his father raised seven children and had the help of his mother with rearing them.

Banko said that one advantage of being a single father is that there is no third party to disagree with anything that he and his son may want to do.

"If we want to go out and play ball or if we feel up to barbecuing, we can do it, without anyone telling us that they don't feel like it, or something like that."

Another advantage that Banko said he has in being a single father is that he is more attuned to his son.

"I can watch him grow and I'm better able to communicate with him."

Because Banko does not interact with other men in his situation, he said that he finds himself at one disadvantage...his friends do not always understand.

King for a day Make dad's day special

Fathers tend to get a bum rap when it comes to receiving gifts from their beloved children. The gift selections are as endless as for any family member, especially mom. But according to many local businesses, most offspring wait until the last minute to buy him that "not so special" gift.

"Everybody is practical when they shop for their father," said an employee at Romulus Hardware in Romulus. "People buy for Mother's Day weeks in advance. But for dad, he's lucky if they buy his gift the week of Father's Day. I guess one reason is fathers are satisfied with what ever you give them. No matter what you buy, they're happy."

And with the range of gifts available in a local hardware store, so far this year, there has been no noticeable increase in Father's Day traffic. Except with two items: flashlights and a combination tape measure and flashlight.

"Mothers bring their kids in and want something inexpensive. These are the only two gifts we've noticed people are buying for their fathers. Last year, dust busters were the rage. In years past, we sold weed wackers and engravers. This year, none," she said.

Tools are always popular. "Dad can always use them," salespeople noted.

Jim Fox, manager of Fox Auto Parts in Van Buren Township agreed. "Tools, pliers, wrench sets, oil filters and cases of oil, everybody buys them, it's hard to say if people buy this stuff for dad or for themselves. But we've even sold tires and floor jacks as gifts for dad. If the kids don't know what to buy, we have gift certificates. People will buy anything for their dad," said Fox.

And for the dad who finished his day in the garage, at the shop or working around the house, Olga Jameel, manager of Modern Jewelry on Wayne Road in Westland, suggested, what else, jewelry.

"Gold chains are still popular," she said. "The only thing that changes is the style. Herringbone and rope are the most common now. They're hot! The trend is link chains and by Christmas, they'll be the rage."

She explained that jewelry while not as popular with men as with women, "Men are definitely wearing more of it. Charms with Number 1 and Super Dad as well as money clips, initial rings and engraved bracelets are selling. Men are buying less tie tacks and more clips, I think, because they don't want to punch holes through their more expensive ties."

"As far as the most unusual present for a father, we're getting calls for single diamond earrings. But I don't think they're for everybody."

Dad deserves to be noticed, recognized

By JOAN MARY DYER
Belleville City Editor

Mother's Day is celebrated with flowers, cards and candy, but often Father's Day is just another day for dad to cut the lawn or wash the car.

"It's true that Mother's Day has always been a bigger occasion," said Roger Dallwig, director of Her Place/His Place Counseling Center. "I don't believe we are as sentimental about fathers, although we should give them recognition on their day."

Dallwig said that there is a tendency to see fathers in a new role - more actively participating in family life - but, at the same time, not giving them the recognition or the credit they deserve.

"Mother is still thought of as the principal caregiver and nurturer in the family, and Dad is viewed as the one who 'brings home the bacon,'" Dallwig continued. "Even though we are seeing more caring and nurturing fathers and many men who are custodial parents, our perception of fathers hasn't kept pace."

The role of the father as family bread-winner often separates him from family activities, Dallwig noted. The afternoon or night shift worker may live on an entirely different sleeping and eating schedule than other members of his family. Swing shift workers who constantly change their schedules also find it difficult to arrange family time together, he said.

When overtime is mandatory or extra hours are expected as a part of the job, both salaried and hourly workers may find that their families take second place to "bringing home the bacon" even though this may not be their choice.

Dallwig related a story that was told to him by a co-worker: The advertising director of a local firm was faced with a 5 p.m. deadline to finish an important brochure. However, he had promised his young son an early afternoon trip to Cranbrook. The dutiful father left work (and the unfinished brochure) to keep his appointment with his son. The next week the father was given a clerical job and transferred to another state and a new advertising director was hired.

DRIVING TO BE THE BEST

By the book
Westland cook has recipes by the dozens

By BOB DENYS
ANP Staff Writer

Hundreds of cookbooks line the shelves of an antique bookcase in Karlyn Haack's Westland home. An old shopping bag lays next to the bookcase, filled with hundreds of recipe clippings from newspapers and magazines. But Haack's secrets to success in the kitchen have never been written down, let alone published.

"Someday I'm going to put them in a book," she said.

Haack is the mother of two sons, Jeffrey, 27, and Michael, 26. She and her daughter-in-law Tonia share recipes. And 5-year-old Aimee is "grandma's helper."

Haack, 47, is a native of Wayne. Her father, Carl Kneip, owned a bar on Michigan Avenue for more than 25 years, after opening one of the first drive-through beer stores in the area on Merri-man Road.

And although she now technically is dubbed a Westland resident - since her home is located at the corner of Clayton and Glenwood streets - Haack is still true to her Wayne heritage.

"This side of the street is Westland, and that side is Wayne. But my heart belongs to Wayne. I graduated from Wayne Memorial 30 years ago," said Haack who just lives across the street from the school and now works as the head afternoon custodian of Wayne Memorial.

"Mostly, I like to read different recipes to get ideas. I'm a basic cook. I don't get into gourmet stuff," she said.

One secret to Haack's success is in baking cakes. She said that the addition of vegetable oil or sour cream into the batter makes the desserts "nice and moist, and they stay fresh longer."

Recently, Haack remodeled her kitchen for maximum efficiency. Everything from stove, refrigerator and cupboards to sink and counter are now within a step or two. The new kitchen layout, she said, makes her method of placing ingredients on the counter before baking and putting them away immediately after using them much more practical.

With the calls for more of her famous poppy seed cake constantly coming in, Haack finds her-self in the kitchen more and more. During the holidays, dozens of the desserts are mass-produced at the request, and sometimes de-mands, of friends and relatives.

But poppy seed cake isn't Haack's only cooking secret.

"I just love to read recipes. And I, personally, don't want to take credit for them. Everybody has their favorites. These are all fantastic."

Here are a few of her best.

GRANDMA SCOTT'S UNCOOKED CHILI SAUCE

- 1 peck ripe tomatoes
- 12 medium onions
- 1 medium bunch celery
- 3 red peppers
- 3 green peppers
- 3/4 cup salt
- 1 quart vinegar
- 4 1/2 cups sugar
- 3 tablespoons mixed pickling spices

Chop all vegetables, add salt and let stand over night. Drain in colander. Then boil together with vinegar, sugar, spices (tied in rag). Combine with vegetables and heat to near boiling point. Can in ster-ilized jars.

IWANA'S TEXAS SHEET CAKE

- 2 sticks of margarine (1 cup)

- 1 cup of water
- 6 tablespoons of cocoa
- 2 cups sugar
- 2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon of baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon of cinnamon
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup sour cream or buttermilk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Bring to boil in saucepan margarine, water, cocoa and sugar. In a large bowl combine flour, baking soda, cinnamon. Beat well. Add eggs, sour cream or buttermilk and vanilla.

Mix well and pour onto cookie sheet with sides. Bake for 15 minutes at 400 degrees.

Frost immediately.

Frosting:

- 1 stick of margarine
- 6 tablespoons of cocoa
- 1 box powdered sugar
- 1 teaspoon of vanilla
- 1 cup chopped walnuts

Bring margarine and cocoa to a light boil. Add powdered sugar and vanilla. Beat well and add wal-nuts. Spread on cake.

POPPY SEED CAKE

- 3 cups flour
- 2 cups sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 1/2 cup salad oil
- 4 eggs
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 can evaporated milk, 13 ounces
- 1 jar poppy seed filling
- 1 cup walnuts

Mix together flour, sugar, salt and baking soda. Add salad oil, eggs, vanilla and evaporated milk. Mix until smooth. Add poppy seed filling and walnuts. Use angel food cake pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour, 10 minutes.

Note: The poppy seed filling - which is sometimes hard to find - is available at Farmer Jack.

AUNT HELEN'S RICE PUDDING

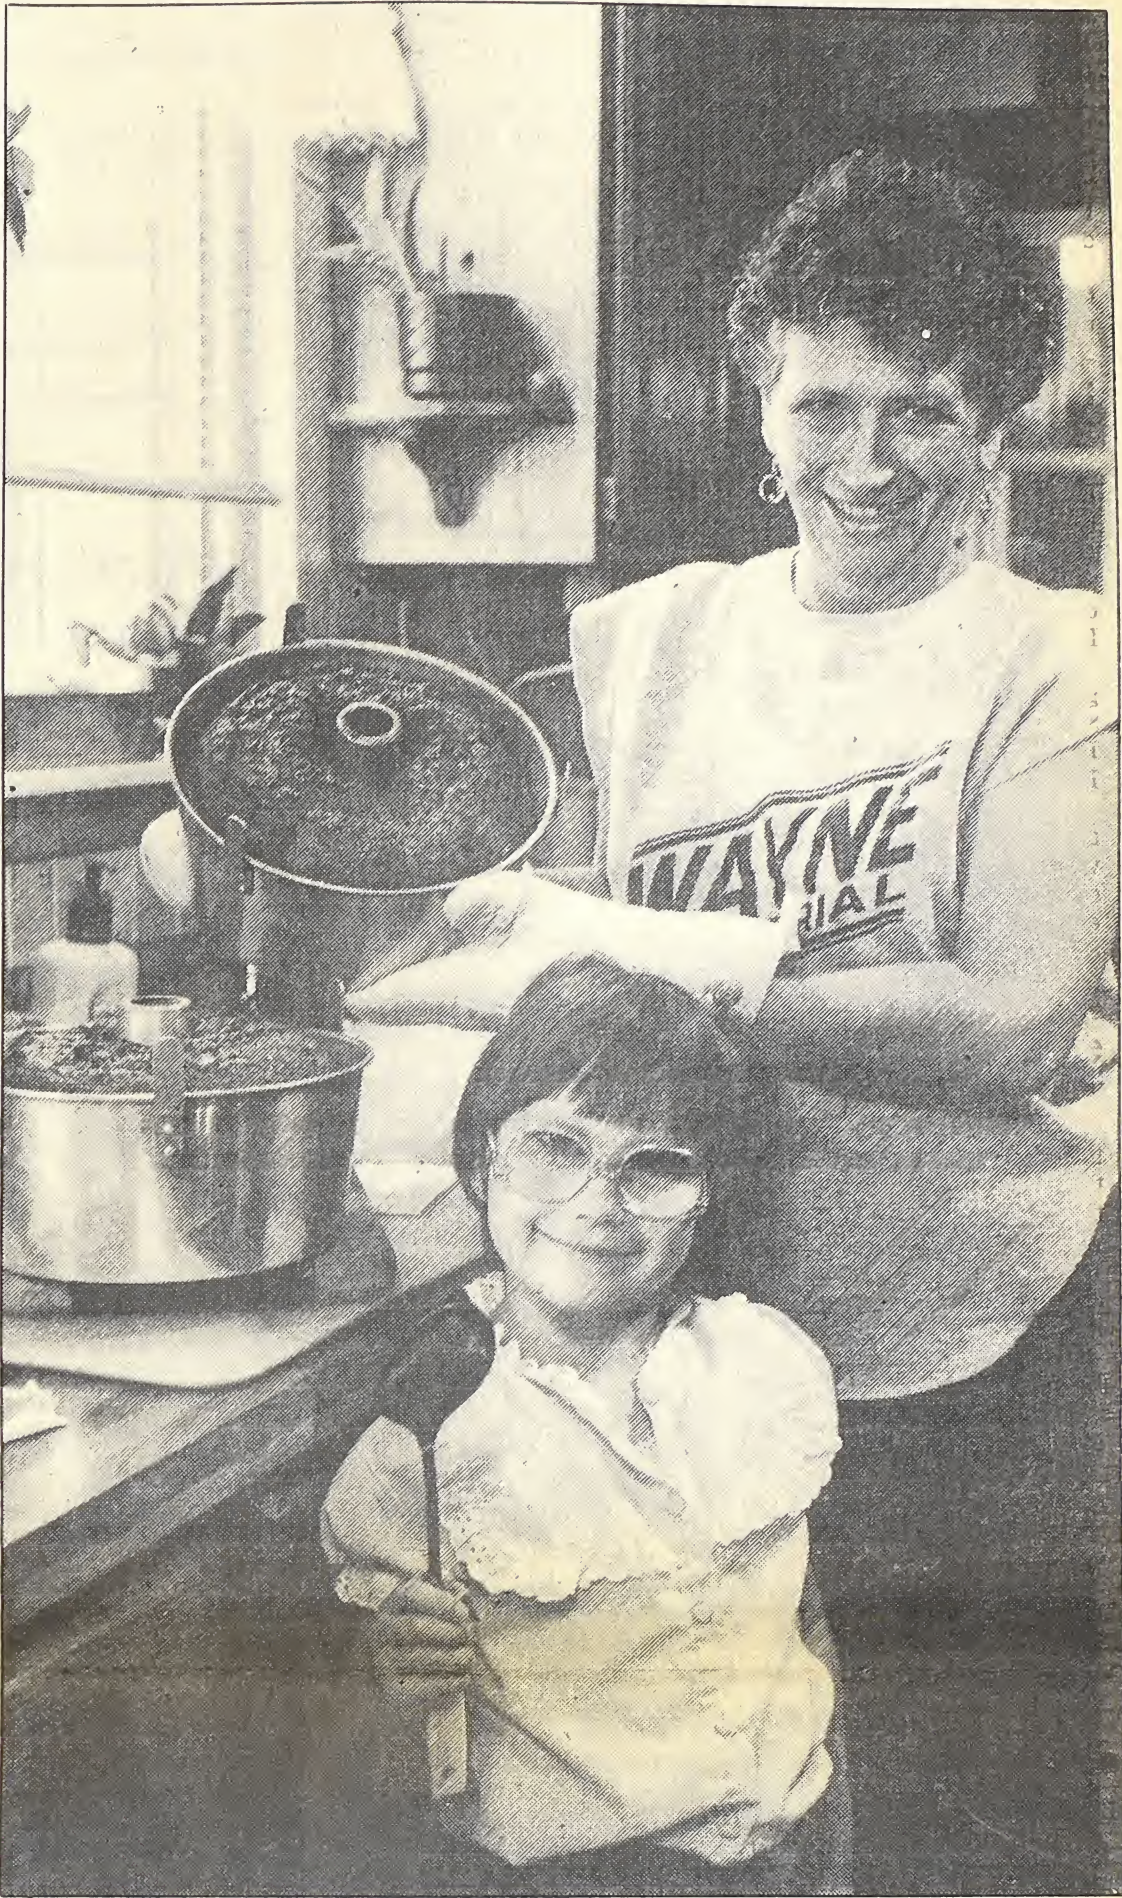

- 2 cups cooked rice
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 2 large eggs (or 3 small)
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 2 tablespoons margarine

Heat milk and add cooked rice. Beat eggs and add sugar, vanilla and raisins. Combine with rice and milk mixture. Pour in baking dish and dot with mar-garine. Set dish in pan of hot water. Bake at 450 de-grees for 20 minutes. Lower heat to 300 degrees and bake until custard is firm (about 15-20 minutes). Sprinkle with nutmeg and cinnamon. Serves 8-10 people.

BOBBIE'S CRUNCHY SWEET PICKLES

- 2 quarts dill pickles (buy them, don't use canned)
- 3 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 cup water
- 1 teaspoon celery seed
- 1 teaspoon mustard seed

Drain, wash and rinse pickle jar. Cut pickles into spears and put them back in the jar. Combine sugar, vinegar, water, celery seed and mustard seed. Mix together until sugar is dissolved. (Do not heat.) Pour over pickles and refrigerate. Let set a couple of days.

Karlyn Haack and "grand-ma's helper," Aimee, 5, show off some of their latest creations. At right, Karlyn at work in her newly remodeled Westland kitchen.

Confessions of a chocolaholic

I can't help myself. It isn't my fault the best things in life are chocolate. Despite the urgings of some of those poor souls who don't really understand the power that chocolate holds over addicts such as myself, chocolate pie is still on the top of the list of favorite things in life. Also on the list is chocolate cake, chocolate brownies, chocolate candy, chocolate in any form at all. Everything falls short of divine chocolate. I admit it, I am among the mil-lions of chocolaholics in Amer-ica today.

These are wonderful choco-late recipes. They aren't too difficult, but in the world of to-day when anything that takes more than opening a package seems a challenge, they are worth the time and effort.

DALLAS CHOCOLATE PIE

- One 9-inch prebaked pastry shell
- 4 ounces sweet chocolate (I use Baker's German Choco-late)
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1/2 cup light corn syrup
- 1 cup sour cream

just desserts

sue willert

- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup heavy cream (whipping cream)
- 1 tablespoon powdered sugar
- Grated bitter chocolate for gar-nish

Melt chocolate in top of dou-ble boiler over hot water. Set aside. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored. Add to the cooled chocolate and blend. Add corn syrup, sour cream and salt. Blend thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into the mixture. Pour into prebaked shell and chill sever-al hours. Whip the cream with the powdered sugar. Spread surface of pie with whipped cream, making attractive swirls with the back of a spoon. Chill for an hour. Sprinkle top with grated bitter chocolate if desired.

CARAMEL CHOCOLATE PIE

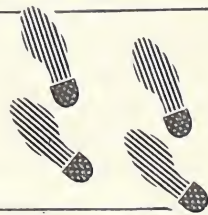

(This reminds me of chewy caramels covered with choco-late)

- One prebaked, 9-inch pastry shell
- 2/3 cup dark brown sugar, packed
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup Hershey's chocolate syrup
- 2 egg yolks, well beaten
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 3/4 teaspoon vanilla
- Whipped cream for garnish
- Toasted almonds for garnish

Mix together the brown sugar, flour and salt until blended. Put into a medium saucepan and add the milk, chocolate syrup and egg yolks. Cook over medium heat, stir-ring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat and add but-ter and vanilla. Cool slightly, then pour into prebaked shell and chill for at least four hours. Garnish with lightly sweetened whipped cream and toasted almonds.

Fathers

"Not all choices that fathers make are as dramatic as this one," Dallwig said, "but it does illustrate the type of pressure with which many men are faced."

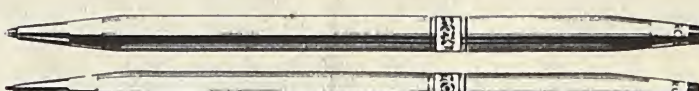

To have a quality family life, Dallwig suggested that fathers schedule more time with their families. Making family outings or activities a priority is important, he said. "Dads have to realize that while working, cutting the grass or repairing the car is important, spending time with their youngsters also is important. They need to make plans and to prioritize their time so that other activities do not fill up their days and crowd out time with their families."

This sign on a tree in a local church yard tells it all. The local nature lovers at New Hope Baptist Church at the corner of Wildwood and Avondale streets in Westland probably only had good intentions when they placed this sign. However, due to the nature of their warning, a little credibility from passersby has been lost. ANP photo by Joan Mary Dyer.

Conference sets agenda

Christian healing, new broadcasting efforts and "a spiritual urgency" as mankind stands at "the crossroads" - these were among the major topics discussed as the Christian Scientists staged their annual meeting in Boston June 8.

The denomination Mother Church was filled to capacity with members from around the world as the chairman of the church Board of Directors, other church officers and adherents from a number of countries addressed the members gathered.

Highlights of the meeting included:

- Progress reports on expanding broadcasting efforts, including a newly established international shortwave radio network;
- A closing address by the chairman of the denomination five-member Board of Directors who spoke of the larger church mission and the continuing and urgent need "to be effective in reaching mankind";
- "Reports from the field," a traditional aspect of each annual meeting which this year included accounts of spiritual healing from Kansas, India, Florida and Cameroon as well as accounts of Sunday School and church progress from Ohio and Portugal;

A special word of thanks from church Treasurer Donald C. Bowersock for members' support of new expenditures during the past year. He noted that even after 1986-87 increased costs, including a $25 million expenditure on broadcasting activities and facilities, the overall church working funds were up nearly 9%. Increased expenses, he said, "were investments that have been made directly to enhance our ability to reach all mankind - to reach the hungry heart - more effectively."

Much of the meeting focused on ways in which the Christian Science Publishing Society's new broadcasting activities were furthering the church healing mission. Publishing Society Manager John H. Hoagland, Jr., referring recently to the flagship publication, The Christian Science Monitor, in both the print and broadcast forms, noted, "The Monitor's role in the last part of this century has to be defined globally."

Joan Harrold is a member of the 1st Church of Christ, Scientist, 36016 Michigan Ave., Wayne. She recently attended the annual church meeting in Boston. This article is the first in a series of articles from the pulpit, which will be written by local religious figures.

Deacon
ordained

The Rev. Steven Miller was ordained as a deacon as a probationary member of the Detroit annual Conference of the United Methodist Church Friday, June 5. The ordination was staged at the 146th session of the Conference at Adrian College.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Gladwin Miller of Wayne, the Rev. Miller graduated from John Glenn High School in Westland. He holds a bachelor of arts degree from Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky., and will receive a master of divinity degree from the Asbury Seminary.

He was also recently married to Janet Miles, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Miles of Brandon, Fla.

Church gets new minister

The Rev. J.D. Landis is coming to the Romulus Community United Methodist Church from the Trinity United Methodist Church in Ashland, Ohio.

He is a May 1987 graduate of the United Theological Seminary in Dayton, Ohio and holds two master of divinity degrees.

He has served as a youth minister at the Metropolitan Church in 1979 and as pastor of the Peck, Buel and Melvin United Methodist Church for six years. He has also been active in the mission programs in the church.

His wife, Carolyn, will join him in accepting the new post.

Prayer to the Holy Spirit: Holy spirit, you who made me see everything and who showed me the way to reach my ideal; you who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me; and you who are in all instances of my life with me. I, in this short dialogue, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desire may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for the love to words and my loved ones. Persons must pray the prayer three consecutive days without asking your wish. After third day wish will be granted no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as this favor is granted. Signed "M.S."
